“Christianity is non-existent apart from Christ ; it centres in Christ ; it radiates, now as at the first, from Christ. It is not a mere doctrine bequeathed by Him to a world with which He has ceased to have dealings ; it perishes outright when men attempt to abstract it from the Living Person of its Founder.”

Bampton Lectures, Canon Liddon.

FOREWORD

THE thoughtful young person I have had in mind in what I have written—the young person buffeted by the questions of many sorts, in these questioning days—I have sought to show the One to hold to, even our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Here is at once rest and safety in personal allegiance to the Personal Christ. If the young soul will but keep unrelaxing grip on Him who is at once our Lord and our great Brother, all will be well. This is the essential thing for any one. I have tried to show that it is also the most reasonable thing.
