FOREWORD

The Lincoln School believes that exchange of ideas about common problems is essential if education is to be redirected so as to meet the needs of modern life. This pamphlet presents a record of certain experiences with school assemblies, rather than a full discussion of the whole question. The five years during which the school has been in operation is too short a time in which to have developed final proof as to the value of the types of exercises outlined herein. It is hoped, however, that this record of experiences will be helpful to others who are working on the same problem. The ideal is one of vital school meetings where pupils learn to share their interesting experiences, to express themselves intelligently, easily, and naturally, and where they grow toward higher standards of comradeship, citizenship, and scholarship through cooperative efforts in school affairs.
