THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

November 4, 1911

I have read with great interest the work of Mr. Morris on International Arbitration and Procedure, now published by the Yale University Press, and am sure it will be a real contribution to the literature on the subject. Mr. Morris has delivered lectures in the Yale Law School for eight years on this topic, and is familiar, by reason of his experience as Counsel in the Venezuelan Arbitration, with the many precedents for peaceful adjudication of international controversies that can be found in the history of the world.

With these in mind it may be said that the general idea of arbitration is by no means a
