1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions and activities. It emphasizes that this is essential for ensuring transparency and accountability in the organization's operations.

2. The second part outlines the various methods and tools used to collect and analyze data. This includes both traditional manual methods and modern digital technologies, highlighting the benefits of automation and data integration.

3. The third part focuses on the challenges and risks associated with data management, such as data security, privacy concerns, and the potential for data loss or corruption. It provides strategies to mitigate these risks and ensure the integrity of the data.

4. The fourth part discusses the role of data in decision-making and strategic planning. It explains how data-driven insights can help organizations identify trends, opportunities, and areas for improvement, leading to more informed and effective decisions.

5. The fifth part covers the importance of data governance and compliance with relevant regulations and standards. It outlines the key principles of data governance, including data quality, access control, and retention policies.

6. The sixth part addresses the future of data management, including emerging trends like artificial intelligence, machine learning, and cloud-based data solutions. It discusses how these technologies will shape the way organizations handle their data in the coming years.

7. The seventh part provides a summary of the key points discussed throughout the document and offers recommendations for best practices in data management and analysis.

8. The final part of the document includes a conclusion and a call to action, encouraging organizations to embrace data-driven approaches and invest in the necessary resources and skills to succeed in the digital age.

PREFACE

This is the first General Register to be published by the University. It is intended to give a concise history of the personnel of the University for the first ten years, closing with July 1, 1902.

In addition to the data obtained directly from the persons named in the volume, much information was found in the reports of the Secretary of the Board of Trustees; the Auditor's accounts; the records in the Recorder's office; the Annual Registers; the University Record; the student publications, and the University Scrap Book in the General Library.

The officers of instruction and administration have been arranged as far as possible according to the plan adopted in the Annual Register. Members of the faculties have been arranged on the basis of rank and seniority. Those who have offered courses during the Summer Quarters only are placed after the names of the permanent officers. The data concerning each officer is limited to his career as a member of the faculties of the University of Chicago.

In the list of collegiate alumni appear the names of the graduates of the old University of Chicago from 1861 to 1886. By formal act of the Board of Trustees on February 2, 1891, the degrees of A.B. and S.B. conferred by the old University were confirmed and re-enacted by the new University, thus making these graduates alumni of the present institution. On July 13, 1891, the Baptist Union Theological Seminary became the Divinity School of the University, and the graduates of the Seminary became alumni of the new Divinity School.

With the name of each honorary alumnus has been published the statement used at the time the degree was conferred.

The present volume contains all graduates up to July 1, 1902. All students graduating after July 1 of one year and before July 1 of the next year are enrolled as graduates of the latter year.

The names of all persons who received appointments as officers of administration and instruction or as fellows before July 1, 1902, are included under their respective departments.

To the name of each person known to be deceased, an asterisk (*) has been prefixed.

Great care has been taken to insure the accuracy of the data herein published; but many errors and imperfections will no doubt be found in this first General Register. No small difficulty has been encountered in sifting the data from the disorganized material which was obtainable, and in tracing alumni and fellows whose careers have not been followed since they left the University.

The alumni can effectively assist in the work of keeping a correct and up-to-date register by informing the University of any change in address or profession.
