PREFACE.

As this book is based on the Public School Latin Primer, it does not contain what may readily be learnt in that Manual. It may be commenced as soon as the pupil knows a Noun in each of the Five Declensions, the Personal Pronouns, the Adjectives Bonus and Tristis, and the Indicative and Imperative moods of the Four Regular Verbs.

The Sentences headed by Capital Letters, with the Examples, should be learnt by heart, especially those printed in black type. As soon as a sentence is known, the corresponding Exercise in Part II. should be carefully studied and written out. The Exercises contain no construction which has not been previously explained. The Sentences, which come after the Notes, and are headed by S and the following letters, should not be learnt the first time of going through the book.

Reference is constantly made, for the form of words, to the Latin Primer; and, for the use of words, to the Author's First Latin Steps, in which the pupil will find all ordinary Latin constructions more fully illustrated and explained.
