PREFACE

The aim of these studies is to seek in and through the mind and experience of Jesus Christ the way of life for individuals, churches, classes, and nations that shall lead toward a solution of our present problems. We believe that Jesus Christ is the hope of the world; the studies assume this belief and attempt to analyze its implications for the world today. They do not attempt, however, to present an economic or political program. We believe that such programs are very definitely the concern of Christians, but intelligent discussion of programs must follow a clear analysis of our personal share in social wrongs and of the kind of relationships we should try to express in our economic and political life.

Just as the preparation of these studies was begun, The Untried Door, by the Reverend Richard Roberts, came to us. We read it with a deep sense of agreement and gratitude. We must express our indebtedness, also, to the late Walter Rauschenbusch whose Christianity and the Social Crisis translated for us several years ago the hope of the Kingdom into terms of modern life.
