1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions and activities. It emphasizes that this is crucial for ensuring transparency and accountability in the organization's operations.

2. The second part outlines the various methods and tools used to collect and analyze data. It highlights the need for consistent and reliable data collection processes to support informed decision-making.

3. The third part details the reporting and communication strategies employed to share key findings and insights with stakeholders. It stresses the importance of clear and concise communication to ensure that all relevant parties are kept up-to-date.

4. The fourth part addresses the challenges and limitations of the current data management system. It identifies areas where the system falls short and proposes potential solutions to address these issues.

5. The fifth part provides a summary of the overall findings and conclusions drawn from the analysis. It reiterates the key points and offers recommendations for future improvements and actions.

THE Writer desires to express his acknowledgments to Professor Plumptre for permission to make use of his translation of these tragedies; and to Mr D'Arcy Thompson for a similar courtesy in the case of his 'Sales Attici.'

Use has also been made of M. Patin's 'Studies on Sophocles,' Mr Jebb's edition of the 'Ajax and Electra,' and the last chapter of Lord Lytton's 'Athens.'

Of the translations, those marked (A.) are by the late Professor Anstice; those marked (D.) are by Dale; and those distinguished by (P.) are from Professor Plumptre's translation, to which reference has been made above.
