“THE HUMANISM OF THE BIBLE” SERIES.

EDITED BY

Professor JOHN E. McFADYEN, B.A. (Oxon.), D.D.
(UNITED FREE CHURCH COLLEGE, GLASGOW),

AND

D. RUSSELL SCOTT, M.A.
(LATE PUSEY AND ELLERTON HEBREW SCHOLAR IN THE UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD)

THE aim of the Series is to set forth the human experience that underlies, and is reflected in, the Bible. The doctrinal and theological treatment of the Bible has undoubtedly tended to obscure its transcendent human interest. This Series is an attempt to recover some of those ancient experiences and personalities which come to expression in the Bible, and to show how fascinating and relevant they are to the life of to-day. It seeks in a broad way to interpret the spirit of the Biblical books with which it deals, and to indicate their permanent human interest and worth.

“If the series may be judged by its first volume, it promises to fulfil admirably its purpose of making the Bible a more human book.”—Glasgow Herald.

THE BEAUTY OF THE BIBLE.

A STUDY OF ITS POETS AND POETRY.

By Professor JAMES STALKER, D.D.

Just Published.

In this volume Dr. Stalker brings his well-known gifts of religious and literary insight to the interpretation of the Poetry of the Bible. After an illuminating introductory discussion of Hebrew poetry, the various poetical books are treated in sympathetic chapters, which are calculated both to open up the Bible as literature, and to exhibit its great truths alike as guidance for life and as a preparation for Christianity. The volume will carry home to its readers, with fresh conviction and power, an impression of the noble wisdom and the literary beauty of the Bible.

JESUS AND LIFE.

By Professor JOSEPH F. McFADYEN, M.A.

HISLOP COLLEGE, NAGPUR, INDIA.

"A remarkably well-written and well-informed attempt to set out the messages of our Lord for the moral and social life of to-day. . . . He writes in a very illuminating and suggestive fashion."—The Scotsman.

"He deals with big subjects. . . . All these subjects are discussed with an originality, a freshness of vision, and an independence that gives the book an extraordinary interest and value."—Aberdeen Free Press.

"It will be ranked with Glover's 'The Jesus of History' as a fine example of present-day apologetic. . . . It is admirably fitted to guide and strengthen thoughtful men in the present hour and under the present strain."—Glasgow Herald.

"An extremely attractive presentation of the message of Jesus for the moral and social life of our age. . . . The discussion is invariably charged to the full with sincerity and insight."—Westminster Gazette.

THE PROBLEM OF PAIN.

A STUDY IN THE BOOK OF JOB.

By Professor JOHN EDGAR McFADYEN, D.D.

UNITED FREE CHURCH COLLEGE, GLASGOW.

"Amidst the large literature which has gathered about this masterpiece of the human soul, Dr. McFadyen's volume will have its own important place, and will deserve it."—Glasgow Herald.

"An exceedingly clever and original study in the Book of Job. The author throws fresh light on the tragic Old Testament story, and his new rhythmical renderings of many passages in the Book are particularly striking."—Sheffield Daily Telegraph.

"Under his hands the Book of Job becomes more manifestly than ever one of the noblest monuments of sacred literature. Scholarship does not obscure the instinct for human interest. Vitality is the note of a very convincing book."—Life and Work.

STUDIES IN LIFE FROM JEWISH PROVERBS.

By W. A. L. ELMSLIE, M.A.

"A work of special interest. . . . Mr. Elmslie possesses much learning. . . . The book is full of good things, and will help any intelligent reader to understand books which, though they attract nearly everybody, often miss their aim because the reader cannot bring himself into anything like a living relation to their authors' experience."
—Times Literary Supplement.

"Written with a rare charm of language that captivates the attention and holds it from beginning to end. . . . The treatment is human in the very best sense of the word. Altogether this is a book to be thankful for."—Aberdeen Daily Journal.

"What Mr. Elmslie has done represents, and that in a highly attractive form, the best help that can be given us by recent investigations."—Westminster Gazette.

RELIGION IN SONG.

STUDIES IN THE PSALTER.

By Professor W. G. JORDAN, D.D.

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY, KINGSTON, ONTARIO, CANADA.

"Dr. Jordan is always luminous and suggestive; and we can only thank him for the effective help he has thus given to the appreciation of a portion of the Bible to which, in these days, many look so wistfully for some light on the burden and the mystery of the world."—Westminster Gazette.

"A useful study of the Psalter, discussing in an illuminating manner its origin, structure, and literary qualities."—The Times.

THE INDIVIDUALITY OF S. PAUL.

By R. H. STRACHAN, M.A.

"A close and careful investigation of the teaching of the Apostle. Mr. Strachan's style is crisp and pointed."—The Times.

"The book represents much honest and independent thinking, and is a very sincere and helpful contribution to a working knowledge of St. Paul's life and theology."—The Scotsman.

"An important and original contribution to the understanding of the New Testament."—Sheffield Daily Telegraph.

PESSIMISM AND LOVE, IN ECCLESIASTES AND THE SONG OF SONGS.

By DAVID RUSSELL SCOTT, M.A.

LATE FUSEY AND ELLERTON SCHOLAR IN THE UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD.

"An able and exhaustive analysis and explanation of Ecclesiastes. The book teems with valuable instructions for men of to-day."—Liverpool Courier.

"No more suggestive and illuminative scriptural studies have been published recently."—Irish Presbyterian.

"Mr. Scott's command of language is quite remarkable, and clear diction is combined with penetrative insight and sound judgment."—Aberdeen Daily Journal.
