I HAVE been requested by the managers of the convention to make an appeal to you for the study of the Holy Scriptures. The limited time allotted me precludes consideration of them as a whole and compels special selection.

I have chosen their Great Central Figure—the Great Central Figure of all time,—and shall speak of Him, believing that He of all the characters found in them will most incite desire in you to know them, and more than all others will impel you to their study; and in the hope that in their study you may come to know Him, whom to know aright is life eternal.

For ten years I have had in my mind and purpose the preparation of a lecture concerning Him. In that time I have read many books, heard many lectures and listened to many sermons of which He was the subject or the theme, and have gleaned in many fields and delved into many mines. And now I bring you an epitome of what I have read and heard and of my own best thought concerning one phase of a single question pertaining to Him the primal, master question—"Was He mortal, or is He divine?"

In presenting the subject I omit from the argument almost entirely the fact of His immaculate conception;—the fact of His miraculous birth;—the fact of His resurrection;—the fact of His ascension, and the miracles He performed; and confine myself to a consideration of His personality—the effect of His gospel and the results of His ministry and life.

I do not claim originality for much I bring you. There is in it little new. Sometimes only the thread that binds the parts together is mine.

The thoughts I present are still wet with the dew of other minds. The fragrance of many great souls still lingers about them. In assembling them and preparing them in somewhat new form I have been greatly blessed, and I give them now to you in the hope that there are blessings in them still.
