SARAH ORNE JEWETT

THE MATE OF THE DAYLIGHT, AND FRIENDS ASHORE

Sarah Orne Jewett.

The purity of her sentiment, the unstrained felicity and naturalness of her style, the thorough likeableness of all the people to whom she introduces us, all conspire to render her stories about as nearly perfect in their way as anything in this world ever gets to be. — GOOD COMPANY.

THE MATE OF THE DAYLIGHT. 18mo, $1.25.

This volume contains a collection of tales from Miss Jewett's facile pen, which have the charm and brightness which distinguish all her work, and also that combined strength and grace of touch which has won her a foremost place among writers of short stories.

COUNTRY BY-WAYS. 18mo, gilt top, $1.25.

Her portraiture of New England characters and scenes is inimitable. — The Critic (New York).

DEEPHAVEN. "Little Classic" style. 18mo, $1.25.

It is a common thing to say about a book that it is charming, or interesting, or absorbing, and very often it is said without any particular meaning or interest. But here is a book which is really all three. — Boston Transcript.

OLD FRIENDS AND NEW. "Little Classic" style. 18mo, $1.25.

Seven charming short stories. . . . The autumn is not likely to bring anything more wholly delightful to lovers of the best light literature. — New York Evening Post.

PLAY DAYS. Stories for Children. Square 18mo, $1.50.

If Santa Claus neglects to leave a copy of "Play Days" in any household where there is a little girl, he is n't the kind of Santa Claus we take him for. — Boston Transcript.
