The Wilderness Campers

CHAPTER I

"YOUR son has over-studied and is suffering from nervous prostration, Mrs. Beauchamp. Better send him off to the Canadian Northwest—the farther north the better."

"But Doctor, I have no one to send with him! You would not have me send him off alone, would you?"

"Oh, as for that," was the genial reply of the doctor, "I can find him guide, cook and locality, without any trouble. As for company, why not let Milly and Tom go along with him? The truth is they all stand in need of a change."
