AFFECTIONATELY inscribed to relatives and friends, on earth and in heaven, who have been faithful co-workers in the mission of my life; most of all to her who was my constant companion, chief inspiration, oracle and guide for nearly fifty years, and to our four children, each of whom, from childhood to this day, has had a mind and heart to lend a hand.

FOREWORD

THIS little book is the simple story of the ministry of my dear brother Jasper through many years to his own people in his own home land. It is what a little maid in a far away old time used to ask for,—“a truly story” to the last line, and well I can testify that the half has not been told. But what he tells me goes right to the heart, as it will go to the hearts of the thousands who will read it, of our faith and name, and the “Lend a Hand Society,” of which we are all members in the wider interpretation of the happy thought that “joins hands and leaves nobody out.”
