FOREWORD

In this book I have put not only poems that are loved, but some less known which seem to me lovable. My wish is to make it the foundation for an anthology wherein one need not read much to enjoy a little. I shall therefore welcome suggestions born of a sincere desire to assist in the upbuilding of a structure such as is justified by the rich material available.

LEIGH MITCHELL HODGES.

Overbrook, Pennsylvania
September 1906.

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions and activities. It emphasizes that this is crucial for ensuring transparency and accountability in the organization's operations.

2. The second part of the document outlines the various methods and tools used to collect and analyze data. It highlights the need for consistent and reliable data collection processes to support informed decision-making.

3. The third part of the document focuses on the role of technology in modern data management. It discusses how advanced software solutions can streamline data collection, storage, and analysis, leading to more efficient and accurate results.

4. The fourth part of the document addresses the challenges associated with data management, such as data quality, security, and privacy. It provides strategies to mitigate these risks and ensure the integrity and confidentiality of the organization's data.

5. The fifth part of the document concludes by summarizing the key findings and recommendations. It stresses the importance of a proactive approach to data management to maximize the value of the organization's data assets.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

The poems by Emerson, Holmes, Longfellow, W. W. Story and Bayard Taylor are reprinted by arrangement with and permission of Houghton, Mifflin & Co., the authorized publishers of their works. For similar courtesies the compiler is gratefully indebted to Joaquin Miller, John Hall Ingham and James Whitcomb Riley; also Charles Scribner's Sons, D. Appleton & Co., E. P. Dutton & Co., The J. B. Lippincott Company and David Nutt of London.
