Introduction

THE two previous books of the series, "Felicia," and "Felicia's Friends," have told the story of little Felicia Lane's life in Blackberry Hill, and the friends she and her father, the new minister, make. Felicia's mother is out in Colorado, trying to get well, but many of the good neighbors in Blackberry Hill are ready to help and advise Felicia. She has an "intimate friend," Winifred Harlow, and many other friends, old and young, among whom is Carina Lotti, a wonderful little violinist whom strange circumstances take to Blackberry Hill. There is also Miss Shaw, the young teacher, who plans and helps on many good times for the girls and boys who are her pupils. More about Felicia and Blackberry Hill will be found in "Felicia's Folks."
