PREFACE.

The publication of this work has been delayed longer than anticipated, but this has not been to its disadvantage. More care and labor might have been expended in its preparation, but for the potent argument, it will not pay. The fault finding critic may ask himself how much more gratuitous attention he would have bestowed upon the work. To the practical genealogist no apology is necessary for its incompleteness, while to the general reader it may be remarked, that it is difficult to ascertain the whereabouts of the different branches of a family, and when found one half will probably treat letters of inquiry with silent indifference. Some who appear interested in the subject have but a vague idea of the scope of Genealogy, or the kind of information wanted; and a few manifest a silly weakness in regard to dates, as though the public estimate of character were based on age. There are doubtless errors in this work, and the writer earnestly desires that those who can, will forward any additions or corrections within their knowledge, and these will be entered in a copy of the book to be deposited in the library of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, in Philadelphia, Pa., for the benefit of future investigators. This Society is now making a specialty of collecting genealogical or family records, and as a member thereof, the writer requests copies of such records to be forwarded, either to himself, or to the Society in Philadelphia.

The coat of arms given on page 12, is printed from a cut made by the writer with a carpenter's chisel, and is but too correct a copy of the rough original.
