The main object the compiler had in publishing this list was to make more generally known the right of the 94th Regiment to its title, badge, and honours, and he is not aware that that right has ever before been publicly represented.

The colours of the regiment are unadorned by any of the emblems of its services, but surely, it only requires a proper representation of the facts of the case, to have them restored. They cannot be denied on the ground that the regiment has been disbanded, or how was it that the 18th Hussars, when re-formed in February 1858, had the words "Peninsula" and "Waterloo" restored to them, after the regiment had been out of existence for 37 years, whilst the 94th was in that position only 5 years! In August 1861 the 42nd Regiment was permitted to assume its old national title—"The Black Watch"—even after a lapse of one hundred and twenty years; and the 70th Regiment has, so late as December 1867, obtained the word "Guadaloupe," fifty-seven years after its services there. If, then, the present little work in authenticating these facts should at all conduce to regain for the regiment its long-deferred honours, the compiler will feel highly compensated for his time and trouble. To forward this object, a friend* of the compiler wrote the record of the regiment, which was published in the UNITED SERVICE MAGAZINE for October, November, and December 1868, and which has been favoured with commendation from several old officers of the corps.

To the following officers and gentlemen the compiler tenders his best thanks for the information they have supplied him with, and particularly to Messrs. Thornton and Eutherford, the only officers now living, who served with the "Scotch Brigade" in the Peninsula, and have both reached the age of 80.

Accompanied Sir James Craig's expedition to Malta and Naples in 1805, and served in Sir James Kempt's Light Battalion. Proceeded thence with the army which took possession of Sicily; served there four years, and was present at the capture of the Islands of Ichna and Proccida. He joined the 3rd Battalion of his Regiment (the 27th) at Escalio in the north of Portugal in April previous to the campaign of 1813, and having command of the Light Company, he was actively employed previous to and at the battle of Vitoria, investment of Pampeluna, battles of the Pyrenees at the Pass of Roncavalles, heights of Linaoia, heights above Pampeluna, storming of the French position on the 30th July, and pursuit of the enemy until the 6th Aug. 1813; passage of the Bidassoa, heights above Vera. In command of the Light Companies of the right Brigade 4th Division, he commenced the battle of the Nivelle by an attack upon the French advanced redoubt; in storming their main position his horse was killed under him; and in following them up drove them out of the village of St. Pierre. He was also employed in the affairs at Garret's House and near Bayonne on the 10th and 13th Dec., and when the army was put in motion to repel the enemy's encroachment upon our winter position; also actively employed upon the heights of Bidache. Commanded the above-mentioned Light Companies at the battle of Orthez, battle of Toulouse—the previous day to which he took possession of the bridge over the river Eze, and the village of Croix d'Orade, which had been captured by a charge of the 18th Hussars. Next morning he moved off his post and covered the advance of the divisions upon Mont Blanc, and subsequently covered the flank movement of the columns to turn the right of the enemy, and also the advance of the division till it crowned the heights (horse killed under him); he then drove in the enemy's skirmishers, and took up a line to cover the columns till night. After the termination of the Peninsular war he embarked at Bordeaux with the 1st Battalion 7th Regt. for Canada; was present in all the operations on Lake Champlain, and covered the retreat from Plattsburg to Montreal. He was afterwards present at the capture of Paris, and served in France with the Army of Occupation.
