

ECONOMICS OF THE IROQUOIS.
A DISSERTATION PRESENTED TO
THE FACULTY OF BRYN MAWR
COLLEGE FOR THE DEGREE OF
DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY. 1904

Published @ 2017 Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd

ISBN 9780649568192

Economics of the Iroquois. A Dissertation Presented to the Faculty of Bryn Mawr College for the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy. 1904 by Sara Henry Stites

Except for use in any review, the reproduction or utilisation of this work in whole or in part in any form by any electronic, mechanical or other means, now known or hereafter invented, including xerography, photocopying and recording, or in any information storage or retrieval system, is forbidden without the permission of the publisher, Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd, PO Box 1576 Collingwood, Victoria 3066 Australia.

All rights reserved.

Edited by Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd.
Cover @ 2017

This book is sold subject to the condition that it shall not, by way of trade or otherwise, be lent, re-sold, hired out, or otherwise circulated without the publisher's prior consent in any form or binding or cover other than that in which it is published and without a similar condition including this condition being imposed on the subsequent purchaser.

www.triestepublishing.com

SARA HENRY STITES

ECONOMICS OF THE IROQUOIS.
A DISSERTATION PRESENTED TO
THE FACULTY OF BRYN MAWR
COLLEGE FOR THE DEGREE OF
DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY. 1904

ECONOMICS OF THE IROQUOIS

A DISSERTATION

PRESENTED TO THE FACULTY OF BRYN MAWR COLLEGE
FOR THE DEGREE OF DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY

BY

SARA HENRY STITES

1904

PRINTED BY
THE NEW ERA PRINTING COMPANY
LANCASTER, PA.

1905

E 39
1789

22/1/89
Large Dinner

CONTENTS.

INTRODUCTION.

SKETCH OF THE ECONOMIC SYSTEMS OF THE NORTH AMERICAN INDIANS.

The Arctic, the Barren, the Forest, the Plain, and the Desert-Oasis Environments;—the domestic economy characteristic of the Barren and Arctic Environments, the village economy characteristic of the Western Forest Environment, the republican clan economy characteristic of the Plain Environment, the communal clan economy characteristic of the Desert-Oasis Environment	1
The economic systems of the Eastern Forest Environment.....	11

PART I.

ECONOMIC ANTECEDENTS OF IROQUOIS CULTURE.

CHAPTER I.—THE ENVIRONMENT OF THE IROQUOIS.

The transitional state of Iroquois culture.....	13
Location and previous history.....	13
Nature of environment in seventeenth century.....	14
A geographic unity.....	14
Topography	15
Hydrography	15
Climate	16
Potential utilities:—Food products—animal and vegetable; Raw materials—animal, vegetable, and mineral.....	16
The Hurons, a related tribe living in a similar environment.....	19

CHAPTER II.—THE PRODUCTIVE ACTIVITIES OF THE IROQUOIS.

Manner of production:—root grubbing, and fruit and nut gathering; hunting and trapping; fishing; agriculture.....	20
Relative importance of these different activities:—the growing tendency of the Iroquois to depend for subsistence upon agriculture	23
Manufactures	26

CHAPTER III.—THE ORGANIZATION OF PRODUCERS.

✓ The sexual division of labor.....	27
✓ The organization of producers.....	30
Instances of the existence of the domestic economy.....	30
The clan economy characteristic of the Iroquois.....	31
The women's agricultural clan.....	31
The men's clan, primarily an organization of warriors and secondarily a hunting body.....	32
Relative influence of the two clans upon the life of the community as a whole; the prominence of the women's clan.....	38
Tribal organization.....	39
Confederate organization.....	40
The servile class of producers—captives and effeminate men.....	41
The position of the medicine men in production.....	42

CHAPTER IV.—THE WEALTH OF THE IROQUOIS.

The concrete economic concept of wealth.....	44
Primary production goods:
For general use—the knife and axe.....	44
For hunting—the bow and arrow, traps and snares, the dog.....	46
For fishing—the harpoon, the net, the weir.....	48
For agriculture—the wooden rake, the digging stick, the hoe....	49
Secondary production goods:
For the preparation of food—the weighted drill and spindle-whorl, cooking and eating utensils of earthenware, wood, and bark....	50
For the making of clothing—scrapers, bone awls, and needles, etc.
Means of transportation—bretelles and burden straps, snow-shoes and sleds.....	54
Consumption goods:
Articles of food—
Maize preparations the staple of village life.....	57
Meat and fish the principal articles of food during the hunt and the fishing expedition.....	58
Beverages	58
Stored surplus.....	58
Clothings and furnishings,—textiles and articles of skin.....	60
Armor	61
✓ Shelter,—stationary dwellings of wood and bark.....	61
The village and its fortifications.....	64
The abstract economic concept of wealth; the Iroquois use of wam- pum	66
The prestige value of wampum.....	67

CONTENTS.

v

CHAPTER V.—THE DISTRIBUTION OF WEALTH.

The confederacy.....	69
The tribe.....	69
The men's clan.....	70
The women's clan.....	71
Inheritance	72
The influence of the clan principle of distribution upon the consumption group.....	73
The place of the individual in the distributive system.....	74
The medicine men—a class above the clan and exacting tribute.....	76
The captives—a class below the clan and rendering tribute.....	78

CHAPTER VI.—EXCHANGE.

A system of barter between tribes.....	79
Trade carried on to a great extent by the men's clans as such.....	80
Means of effecting exchange;—present giving.....	81
The use of wampum as a medium of exchange.....	82

PART II.

SOCIOLOGICAL CONSEQUENTS.

CHAPTER I.—THE FAMILY.

The two forms of the family in general.....	85
The paternal family, the one form of organization known to the domestic and village economy.....	85
The paternal family, the unit of consumption in the republican clan economies	86
The maternal family characteristic of the society dominated by the communal clan.....	86
The origin of the maternal form of the family to be sought in the transitional economy in which the women's clan monopolized the agricultural surplus.....	87
Example in primitive Semitic life.....	87
The maternal family in the Iroquois village.....	87
Influence of the men's clan.....	88
Obligations of the marriage contract.....	88
The advantages on the side of the wife.....	89
The elevated position of the wife in the Iroquois family.....	90
Parental and filial relationships.....	92
The reappearance of the paternal family during the hunting season... #	93

CHAPTER II.—STATE AND GOVERNMENT.

✓ Unsatisfactoriness of the kinship theory of Iroquois society.....	96
✓ The economic basis of Iroquois political institutions.....	97
✓ The political life of the Iroquois sedentary community;—the gentile government representative of both clans, and more particularly of the women's clan;—the functions of the gentile government.....	97
The village or tribal government.....	101
The council of the Elders.....	103
The functions of the tribal council.....	106
The nature of Iroquois laws,—custom-made rules of conduct, the inviolability of which was guaranteed by the council.....	107
The chiefs the executive agents of the council.....	107
The representative nature of the government shown by the fact that public opinion was the only sanction of the laws.....	108
Incorrigibility punished by exclusion from the organization.....	110
Treason punished by death.....	111
The confederate government, a council composed of gentile chiefs... ..	112
The system of voting in the council of the confederacy a proof of the economic basis of the government.....	113
The general council of the confederacy.....	114
The functions of the council of the confederacy.....	114
The executive machinery of the confederacy.....	115
The government of the men's clan on the hunt and on the war-path..	115
The Iroquois aristocracy.....	117
The disfranchised class.....	118
The share in sovereignty possessed by the medicine men.....	120

CHAPTER III.—RELIGION.

✓ The economic foundation of all primitive religions.....	121
Fetishism the result of the domestic economy.....	121
The religion characteristic of hunters and herders.....	122
The religion characteristic of the agricultural community.....	123
✓ When economic life is in a transitional state, religious development is found to correspond.....	125
Deities of the Iroquois.....	126
Traces of fetishism in Iroquois religion.....	126
Polytheism the dominant characteristic of their religion.....	127
Deification of various animal types of importance to the hunter.....	127
Deification of certain species of plants of importance to agriculture..	128
Predominance of animal worship resulting from religious conservatism	129
Deification of natural phenomena influencing economic life:—the Sky, the Sun, etc.....	129

CONTENTS.

vii

Ceremonials connected with hunting deities.....	135
Ceremonials connected with agricultural deities.....	137
Organization of worshipers corresponding to organization of producers	138
The beginnings of a Priesthood.....	139
Secret societies.....	139
The medicine men a separate religious class.....	140

CHAPTER IV.—MORALS.

Virtues—the qualities likely to insure success in economic life.....	144
--	-----

CHAPTER V.—GENERAL CULTURE.

Economic conditions explain the characteristic features of the general culture of the Iroquois.....	147
Their fine physical development.....	147
The extent of their astronomical knowledge.....	148
The extent of their knowledge of medicine.....	148
Their knowledge of agriculture methods.....	149
The Iroquois calendar.....	150
Development of system of communication and record keeping.....	151
Tact, conversational ability, etc.....	155
Esthetic taste.....	155