Dear Mrs Tesson
So many thanks for your kind letter giving me permission to dedicate this book to you. I only hope that when you have read it you may not think it unworthy of the honour bestowed upon it by yourself. Sincerely Yrs.

PREFACE

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—

(I think this is the proper way to begin every communication of this sort), please let me tell you that this book would, in the ordinary course of events, have seen the light two years ago. A terrible smash-up, however, of which I was the victim, is the cause of the delay. If your verdict is as favourable as it was in the case of 'Gone Away' (which, by the way, will shortly be published at 1s.) I shall be more than delighted.

THE AUTHOR.
