TO THIRD EDITION.

This work contains Sailing Directions for the South-east Coast of Nova Scotia and Bay of Fundy, and includes a description of Sable Island, as well as the out-lying Banks of Newfoundland and Nova Scotia.

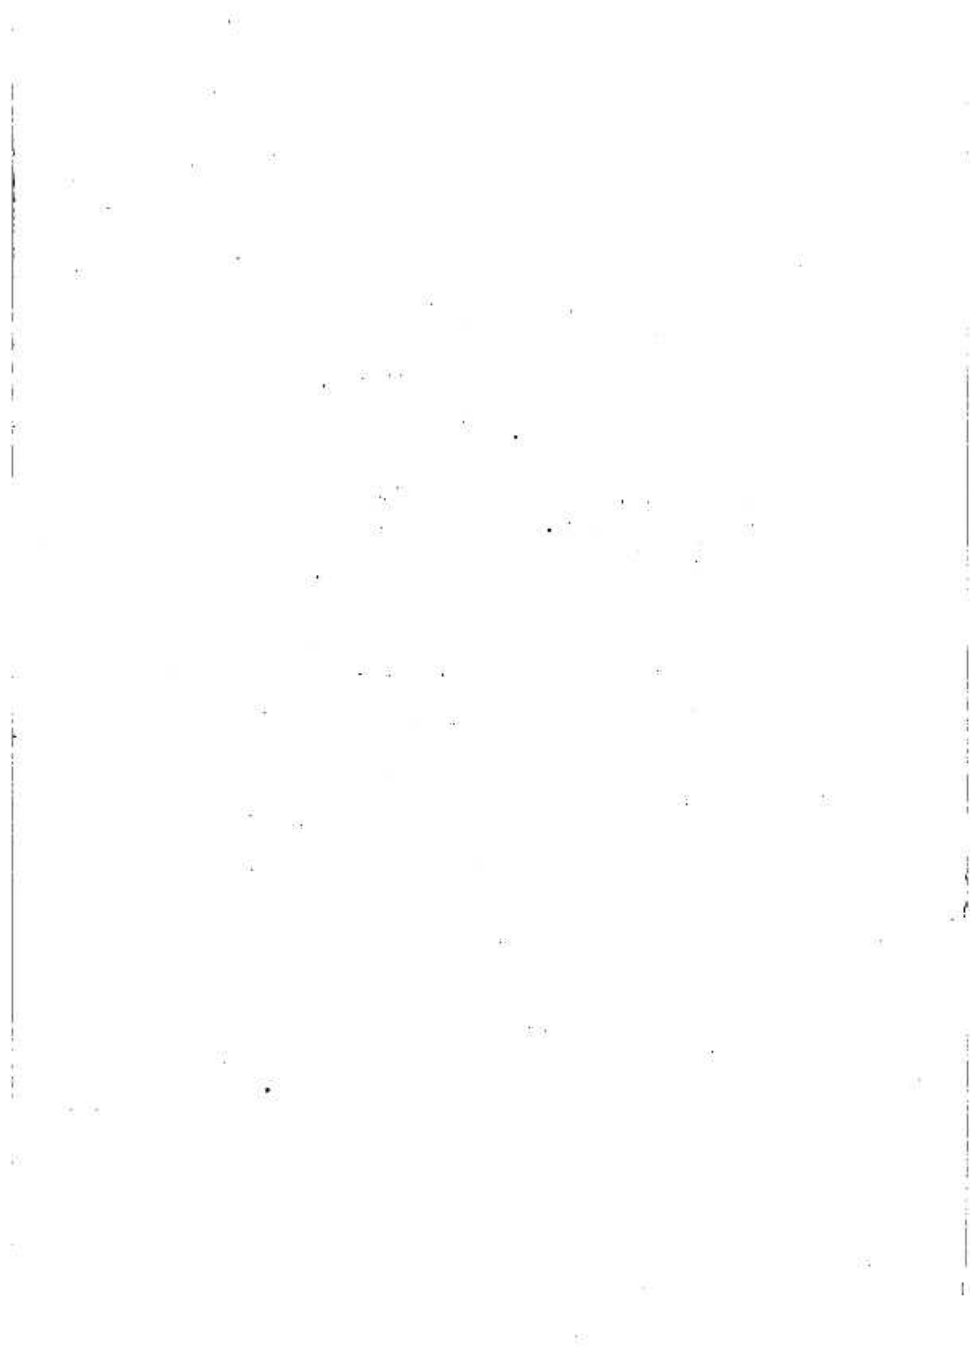

The directions were principally compiled from the remarks and Surveys of Rear Admiral H. W. Bayfield, and Captains P. F. Shortland and J. Orlebar, R.N., between the years 1853-65, by Staff Commander G. F. McDougall, R.N., of the Hydrographic Department, Admiralty, in the year 1867.

The appendix relating to the coast of Maine, which was included in the second edition (1875), has been embodied in the sailing directions for the principal ports of the east coast of the United States, 1882.

This edition has been corrected to the present date by Captain J. H. Bushnell, R.N.
