THE majority of these sketches were contributed to the columns of the Civil Service Guardian in 1890-91, and the Bristol Times and Mirror in 1897-98. "Wild Roses and Honeysuckle at Southchurch," "Blackberrying near Rochford," "Mushrooming near Maldon," "Cottage Gardens and Sea Holly at Heacham," "Sweet Violets near Cromer," and "Holkham Beach and Sand-Hills" have not previously appeared. The whole of the sketches are collected together in the hope that they will form a pleasant holiday-book, and afford some useful information to tourists and sportsmen with regard to the East Coast. The sketches have been written from actual observation and experiences during my visits to the several places. A few additions and excisions have been made so as to bring the sketches up-to-date.
