

ESSAY ON THE DIVINE
AUTHORITY OF
THE NEW TESTAMENT

Published @ 2017 Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd

ISBN 9780649576227

Essay on the Divine Authority of the New Testament by David Bogue

Except for use in any review, the reproduction or utilisation of this work in whole or in part in any form by any electronic, mechanical or other means, now known or hereafter invented, including xerography, photocopying and recording, or in any information storage or retrieval system, is forbidden without the permission of the publisher, Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd, PO Box 1576 Collingwood, Victoria 3066 Australia.

All rights reserved.

Edited by Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd.
Cover @ 2017

This book is sold subject to the condition that it shall not, by way of trade or otherwise, be lent, re-sold, hired out, or otherwise circulated without the publisher's prior consent in any form or binding or cover other than that in which it is published and without a similar condition including this condition being imposed on the subsequent purchaser.

www.triestepublishing.com

DAVID BOGUE

ESSAY ON THE DIVINE
AUTHORITY OF THE NEW TESTAMENT

CONTENTS.

INTRODUCTION	Page. I
------------------------	------------

CHAPTER I.

OF THE EVIDENCE FOR THE DIVINE AUTHORITY OF THE NEW TESTAMENT, ARISING FROM THE PRINCIPLES WHICH IT CONTAINS	II
--	----

Secs.

I. The Character of God as delineated in the New Testament	12
II. The Character of Jesus Christ	15
III. The delineation of human nature	23
IV. The doctrine of a Mediator, and re- demption through him	25
V. The moral precepts of the Gospel	31
VI. The manner in which a future state is represented in the New Testament	35
VII. The motives proposed by the Gospel	38
VIII. The characters which the New Testa- ment is designed to form	41
IX. The happiness which results from the influence of the Gospel, in forming such characters	45
X. There is every thing in the New Tes- tament which a revelation from God may be expected to contain	48

CHAPTER II.

OF THE EVIDENCE FOR THE DIVINE AUTHORITY OF THE NEW TESTAMENT, ARISING FROM CONSIDERATIONS SUGGESTED BY ITS CON- TENTS	51
---	----

See.

I.	The New Testament conveys more improvement to the mind than any other book	54
II.	There are no false principles in the New Testament	55
III.	The New Testament is in direct opposition to every depraved principle in human nature	57
IV.	Men never get before the New Testament	60
V.	The fulness of the New Testament	63
VI.	The scheme of the divine government, as represented in the New Testament, is vast and extensive	65
VII.	The appearance and tendency of the moral world confirm the principles of christianity	66
VIII.	The manner in which the New Testament addresses men	71
IX.	The harmony of the writers of the New Testament	72

CHAPTER III.

OF THE EVIDENCE FOR THE DIVINE AUTHORITY OF THE NEW TESTAMENT, ARISING FROM THE TESTIMONY OF THE APOSTLES		78
I.	The quality and number of the witnesses	81
II.	Their qualifications for bearing testimony to Christ	82
III.	Their sincerity, and personal conviction of the truth of their testimony	84
IV.	Their constancy and perseverance in bearing testimony	85

Señ.		Page.
V.	Their sufferings for the sake of their testimony	87
VI.	Their martyrdom, as a seal to their testimony	89
VII.	It could not be the design of the apostles to accomplish a good end by bad means	91

CHAPTER IV.

	OF THE EVIDENCE FOR THE DIVINE AUTHORITY OF THE NEW TESTAMENT, ARISING FROM SOME ADDITIONAL CONSIDERATIONS, WHICH FURTHER CONFIRM THE TESTIMONY OF THE APOSTLES.	93
I.	The improbability of the apostles contriving a new religion	ib.
II.	The divine origin of the New Testament may be inferred from the talents of the writers	95
III.	The penmen of the New Testament wrote with ease on every subject	97
IV.	The serious spirit with which the apostles write, gives weight to their testimony	98
V.	No little or evil passions are betrayed by the writers of the New Testament	99
VI.	The humility of the writers of the New Testament	100
VII.	The apostles acted as men believing their testimony to be true	102
VIII.	The apostles do not encourage the prejudices, nor flatter the passions of men	105

Sett.		Page.
IX.	The high tone of authority which the writers of the New Testament use.	108
X.	The character in which the founder and first teachers of christianity appeared	109

CHAPTER V.

OF THE EVIDENCE FOR THE DIVINE AUTHORITY OF THE NEW TESTAMENT, ARISING FROM MIRACLES 112

I.	The possibility and existence of the miracles of the New Testament	113
II.	The number, variety, and manner of the miracles performed in confirmation of the christian religion	115
III.	The design of the miracles recorded in the New Testament	117
IV.	The time and place of the miracles of the New Testament considered as furnishing evidence in favour of christianity	118
V.	Evidence of the reality of the miracles of the New Testament	120
VI.	A review of some particular miracles of the New Testament	123

CHAPTER VI.

OF THE EVIDENCE FOR THE DIVINE AUTHORITY OF THE NEW TESTAMENT, ARISING FROM PROPHECY. 127

I.	The character of the prophets	128
II.	The nature, minuteness and extent of prophecy	130

Señ.	Page.
III. The design of prophecy	132
IV. The degree of clearness in prophecy.	133
V. The prophecies concerning Christ . .	135
VI. The destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans	137
VII. The prophecies concerning Antichrist.	139
VIII. The existence and state of the Jews as a separate people	144

CHAPTER VII.

OF THE EVIDENCE FOR THE DIVINE AUTHORITY OF THE NEW TESTAMENT, ARISING FROM THE SUCCESS OF THE GOSPEL.	147
I. The nature of the christian religion as contained in the New Testament	148
II. The persons by whom the christian religion was propagated	150
III. The means which were employed for propagating the Gospel	151
IV. The opposition made to the Gospel . .	153
V. The sacrifices which those must make, who embrace the Gospel	156
VI. The success of the Gospel and the number of its converts	158
VII. Christianity could have had no success, if it had not been true	162
VIII. Christianity has stood its ground in spite of the weakness of some, and the wickedness of others who pro- fess allegiance to Christ	166

CHAPTER VIII.

OBJECTIONS AGAINST THE DIVINE AUTHORITY OF THE NEW TESTAMENT CONSIDERED . .	169
--	------------

Sett.	Page.
I. OBJ. If we must examine one religion in order to discover its divine origin, it is reasonable that we should examine all , and weigh their evidence: and this is so tedious as well as arduous a task, that our lives will be at an end, before it can be accomplished . . .	172
II. OBJ. Christianity generates a timid passive spirit, and is not calculated for forming great characters, or producing men who will prove eminent benefactors to mankind. . . .	174
III. OBJ. Christianity is the friend of despotism, and the enemy of liberty. . . .	176
IV. OBJ. Christianity establishes a system of priestcraft, and exalts the Clergy to exorbitant wealth, and a spiritual despotism over the consciences of mankind	180
V. OBJ. The blood which christianity has shed, the massacres which it has planned and executed, and the miseries which it has brought upon the earth, must seal its condemnation	184
VI. OBJ. Christ's appearance on earth was distinguished by a meanness which seems beneath the dignity of the Son of God	185
VII. OBJ. Christianity is known only to a small portion of mankind: if it were from God would it not be universal in its extent?	187

Señ.	Page.
VIII. OBJ. The effects produced in the world by the christian religion have been few and small, and of little benefit to the human race	189
IX. OBJ. The attachment of multitudes to christianity arises merely from the prejudices of education	192
X. OBJ. Very few of the great and learned embrace the christian religion	193
XI. OBJ. There are many divisions, and great dissensions among christians.	195
XII. OBJ. There is much obscurity in the New Testament, and there are many things mysterious	196
XIII. OBJ. When we survey the form and mode of composition of the books of the New Testament, we cannot conceive that they were written by divine inspiration	200
XIV. OBJ. How can we be certain that the books of the New Testament were written by the Apostles of Christ: and if they were, that they have not been interpolated and corrupted since?	203
XV. OBJ. Many of the advocates for the religion of Jesus inveigh bitterly against philosophy, because they know that christianity cannot bear the strict scrutiny of her penetrating eye	207

CHAPTER IX.

THE SENTIMENTS AND CONDUCT OF THE DEISTS BRIEFLY CONSIDERED	211
---	-----