PREFACE

DAVID LIVINGSTON, pleading for prayers and verses in small compass, brings forward the old-time petition of one "quha glaidlie wald carie ane thin buik that can not easilie carie the hail Psalmes," and he asks that it be "of esie price."

This little "buik of esie price" is sent out in the hope that it may encourage women who are working together for the Kingdom of God in the use of more intimate speech with the "Great Companion" on public occasions.

In some of these prayers there are to be recognized phrases uttered by his personal friends of many centuries, but so absorbed as heart language that it has become impossible to ascribe them to their original sources.

Through these gathered orisons may there be established new fellowship with the heavenly Father, Whom to know is life eternal.

SARAH TRUSLOW DICKINSON.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

In these prayers a certain number of phrases and sentences have been used of which it has not been feasible to determine the origin. Aside from these, acknowledgment is made of the following sources from which prayers have been drawn by permission of the publishers.

"Prayers Ancient and Modern," by Mary W. Tiletson. Little, Brown and Co. Prayers by Christina Rossetti and John Henry Newman, and from the Mozarabic Liturgy.

"A Book of Offices and Prayers." Edwin S. Gorham. (By permission of the compilers.)

"A Chain of Prayer across the Ages," by Selina F. Fox. E. P. Dutton and Co., holders of American copyright only. Prayers marked with an asterisk.

"Prayers and Meditations," by Henry Sylvester Nash. Longmans, Green and Co.

"With God in Prayer," by Bishop Brent. Copyright, 1907, by George W. Jacobs and Co.

"Prayers Written at Vailima," by Robert Louis Stevenson. Copyright, 1898, 1904, by Charles Scribner's Sons.

"Closet and Altar." The Pilgrim Press.
