PREFACE.

CHAPTERS V. and VII. of this book appeared, nearly in their present form, in the International Journal of Ethics. (July 1896, and July 1897.) The other chapters have not been previously published.

In referring to Hegel's works I have used the Collected Edition, the publication of which began in 1832. For purposes of quotation I have generally availed myself of Wallace's translation of the Encyclopaedia, of Dyde's translation of the Philosophy of Law, and of Spiers' and Sanderson's translation of the Philosophy of Religion.

I am much indebted to Mr G. L. Dickinson, of King's College in Cambridge, and to my wife, for their kindness in reading this book before its publication, and assisting me with many valuable suggestions.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

CHAPTER I.

INTRODUCTION.

	PAGE
1. Definition of Cosmology . . . . .	1
2. Hegel's attitude to Cosmology . . . . .	2
3. The main principles illustrated in these Studies . . . . .	3

CHAPTER II.

HUMAN IMMORTALITY.

A.

4. The problem of this Chapter . . . . .	4
5. Hegel's own attitude towards Immortality . . . . .	5
6. Apparently best explained by his indifference . . . . .	5
7. The answer must depend on the Absolute Idea . . . . .	7
8. Two questions arise. Are we among the fundamental differentiations of the Absolute? Is each of these differentiations eternal? . . . . .	7

B.

9. As to the first of these questions,—firstly, What is the nature of the fundamental differentiations of the Absolute? . . . . .	8
10. Let us start from Hegel's category of Life . . . . .	9
11. The unity in this category is in the individuals—but not in each separately . . . . .	10
12. Nor in the aggregate of them . . . . .	10
13. Nor in their mutual determination . . . . .	11
14. The unity must be for each of its differentiations. Thus we get the category of Cognition . . . . .	13
15. This gives us the relation we require . . . . .	14
