

THE INDIAN RELIGIONS OR RESULTS
OF THE MYSTERIOUS BUDDHISM,
CONCERNING THAT ALSO WHICH IS
TO BE UNDERSTOOD IN THE
DIVINITY OF FIRE

Published @ 2017 Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd

ISBN 9780649107285

The Indian religions or Results of the mysterious Buddhism, concerning that also which is to be understood in the divinity of fire by Hargrave Jennings

Except for use in any review, the reproduction or utilisation of this work in whole or in part in any form by any electronic, mechanical or other means, now known or hereafter invented, including xerography, photocopying and recording, or in any information storage or retrieval system, is forbidden without the permission of the publisher, Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd, PO Box 1576 Collingwood, Victoria 3066 Australia.

All rights reserved.

Edited by Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd.
Cover @ 2017

This book is sold subject to the condition that it shall not, by way of trade or otherwise, be lent, re-sold, hired out, or otherwise circulated without the publisher's prior consent in any form or binding or cover other than that in which it is published and without a similar condition including this condition being imposed on the subsequent purchaser.

www.triestepublishing.com

HARGRAVE JENNINGS

THE INDIAN RELIGIONS OR RESULTS
OF THE MYSTERIOUS BUDDHISM,
CONCERNING THAT ALSO WHICH IS
TO BE UNDERSTOOD IN THE
DIVINITY OF FIRE

THE INDIAN RELIGIONS.

THE INDIAN RELIGIONS

OR

RESULTS OF THE MYSTERIOUS

BUDDHISM

CONCERNING THAT ALSO WHICH IS TO BE UNDERSTOOD IN THE DIVINITY OF FIRE.

BY

HARGRAVE JENNINGS

AUTHOR OF "THE ROSICRUCIANS: THEIR RITES AND MYSTERIES," "PHALLOLOGISM: ITS CONNECTION WITH THE ROSICRUCIANS AND THE GNOSTICS AND ITS FOUNDATION IN BUDDHISM," &c., &c.

LONDON

GEORGE REDWAY

YORK STREET COVENT GARDEN

1890.

ANALYSIS OF CONTENTS.

| | PAGE |
|--|------|
| Preface—What the Author premises—Maturity of the Philosophical Results attained in his book—Wide difference between the original religion of the Hindoos and the modern practice of the Indian beliefs—This book not to be judged lightly | xi |
| CHAPTER I. | |
| Buddhism the foundation of all the religions of India—Metaphysics of the creed of Buddha—Hume and the Sceptics—The reasoning of the Buddhists concerning ideas—Abandonment of the visible world—Philosophical Nirvaná—Spinoza—Hobbes—Pythagoreans and Platonists—Very erroneous notions as to what is really meant by Buddhism | 1 |
| CHAPTER II. | |
| Historical description of the religions of India and of the East—Brahminism the people's religion—Buddhism the religion of the philosophers—Brahminic worship accompanied by a number of ceremonies—Indian popular mythology—Unity of the Brahminical systems—Schism between the disciples of Brahma and Buddha—Striking resemblance between the Buddhist religion and the principles and observances of the Roman Catholic Church—Metaphysical system of the Buddhists—Statistics of the various Eastern creeds | 5 |
| CHAPTER III. | |
| Brahminism the human-marked child of Buddhism—Its humanly unexplainable mystic basis—Philosophical view of the physical world—Colours—Man's senses but his sub-divided conception—His register of heat and cold—Observations on the monumental solemnity of Indian forms, and the immemorial usages of Hindostan | 21 |
| CHAPTER IV. | |
| The learned public in England a very small one—In what sense the supposed materiality is correctly assumed of the religion of Buddha—Profundity of the meanings wrapt in the mathematics of Buddhism—The religion of the Magi—Fire-Worship—Denial of the possibility of body on the part of the Buddhs | 27 |

CHAPTER V.

- The Buddhist matter and its attenuation through eternity, or purification in self-strife—This belief substantially the same as the Pythagorean Transmigration, and older to it—The eternal and supernatural East—The human mind and that which is exterior to it, with which it is conversant—Examination of what the latter should be—Cause and effect—Space and time—Impossibility of Atheism—The nature of Fire—God's Invisible Kingdom lieth much nearer to Man than he, in his absurd self-occupation, supposeth 31

CHAPTER VI.

- Logical positions of the Buddhist learned—Their reasoning and its results—Antiquity of their belief—Being—Ideas—Of what compounded?—What is matter?—All that philosophy can give us, as real of this world, is relation—Metaphysical dialectics—Nothingness as taught by the First Teachers 40

CHAPTER VII.

- Differences in nature between races—Organic Life—Its chain of forms—Belief of the Bramin teachers, that the equality of man is unjustified in nature—Inferior and superior human life—Divine Mysterious Lifting, or Possession by the Holy Spirit—This taught in the mysticism of the Indian sages—Belief of the Hindoos in respect of caste—Man lower than he supposes—Possible raising of creatures—Reproduction of souls in other worlds, or in this world—Food and its elimination—Pure life, and healthy life—Views of the Orientals—Bases of the mystic theories of Fire-Worship—The prodigiously ancient creed of the Fire—Magnetism in Physics 53

CHAPTER VIII.

- The revelation of Light the fundamental principle of all the mythologies—How we analyse the composition of matter until we find its floor as fire—How we take to pieces Phenomena until we start abstract flame as from between them—Out of mathematics are no ideas—(Growth, what is it?—What is this thing, Elsewhere, which is other than here?—Common-sense statement of man's foothold in his world 69

CHAPTER IX.

- Search of the philosophers after the materials for the building of the world—Chemical chain in which nature is bound—The apparent and the real, and the difference between them—Solids generally—Forms inanimate—Organisms animate—Terrestrial heat—Vital heat—Magnetism—Gravitation—The Alchemists—The Philosopher's Stone 82

CHAPTER X.

Tradition and popular belief in some things as valid as history—Thoughts of the Buddhists—Children, and their new Sense—Vanity of theological dispute—Emptiness of many merely external forms of religion. 100

CHAPTER XI.

Scheme of life—Activity of nature—Man closely allied to vegetable nature—Striking points of resemblance—Philosophical theories of the Magnetists—Logic and mathematics are matters merely of relation . . . 103

CHAPTER XII.

Man in relation to day and night; to sleeping and waking—Speculations of physiologists, magnetists, and mesmerists—The senses and the body—Animal polarity 108

CHAPTER XIII.

What is sleep?—Out of the world, and extra of its necessities—Curiosities of memory—The universal sense 111

CHAPTER XIV.

Sleep—Dream-conditions—The system of visions—Ecstasy—The senses and the telescope—The Rosicrucian secret system—Children and Dream-Life—Mysterious meaning of Baptism—The use of mysticism—Magic reveries of the Buddhists—Insufficiency of the world . . . 116

CHAPTER XV.

Dreams and the dream-state—Condition of the body on the dream-side of Life—Dream-power only duly valued in the Biblical records, and adequately estimated by the New Testament historians 127

CHAPTER XVI.

Magnetic possible state of being—Methods of being and knowing in other senses than in the gross sense—Occult non-material theories—Magnetism the Key of magic—Opinions of the ancients—Experiments of the moderns—The od or odye of Reichenbach—Rationale of mind—Operation in various phenomena not to be explained by science . . . 130

CHAPTER XVII.

The Fire-Philosophers—Theosophists—Paracelsus—Platonic philosophy of vision 136

CHAPTER XVIII.

The Templars as Christian warriors, or as Atheists and Magicians—Secret and forbidden studies pursued by them—Decried and burnt as magicians—The Beauséant of the Templars the magical standard of the Knightly-religious order—Egyptian Black and White—Heathen origin of the Knightly monastic insignia—Reasons for supposing that the Templars were imbued with the Fire-Theology of the East—The assassins, or Ishmaelites, and their connection with the sacred Christian orders—Predictions of the last Grand-Master of the Templars, Jacques Molay, at the stake—Has a secret synod of the Templars survived to the present day? 189

CHAPTER XIX.

Fire-Celebration of the First of May universal in all lands—Survives in May-games—Baal-worship—The laurel-wreath of the hero, Imperator, and Poet—Meaning of crowns and garlands—Mystic meaning in May-time sallying forth on the Sweeps—The mysteries of Venus—The Saturnian rout—"Jack in the Green"—The Fête-Dieu 165

CHAPTER XX.

The colour of purple and its mystic value—Why worn by emperors, hierophants, &c.—Red in the pontificals of the Roman Catholic Church—Magic of the colour white—White Horses sacred—White Horse of Ilanover—White Horse of Hengist—White Horse in Berkshire—Its annual maintenance or scouring as a religious observance—The Pale Horse, and its rider, of the Revelation—Wherein this sacredness of White and Black shall be supposed to consist 174

CHAPTER XXI.

The Snake—Serpent—Dragon—Pythagorean evolution—Hindoo man—Roman Catholic Purgatory—Necessity of the Supernatural—Views of the Rosicrucians—Roads to Heaven—"No Beginning" 182

CHAPTER XXII.

Unguents, oils, magic applications—Means of instituting a communication between the Seen and the Unseen—Jacob's Ladder—"Gaugu's Lamp"—Magic trial-lights among the Hindoo maidens—Shaving of the Moslems—Meaning of the Moslem and Chinese tails of hair—Mysteries of the Flame preserved in all countries 196

CHAPTER XXIII.

Candlemas-Day—Churching of Women—Meaning of the presentation of lights—William the Conqueror and Philip of France—Universality of the Fire-Mystery—Mystic Rites, meaning the Divinity of Fire—What this Mystic Fire, as a Real Thing in the constitution of the world, is to be taken as signifying 200

ANALYSIS OF CONTENTS.

ix
PAGE

CHAPTER XXIV.

True religion must be derived from the correctly interpreted evidence of nature—Relative values of astronomy and mind-science—Popular mistake in regard to the terms of astronomy—"Infinity" and "Immensity"—Discoveries of Newton and the Herschells—Truths of Astronomy are relative merely—Ethics of astronomy vain—Addison's Spectator, and its views of the science of the stars 204

CHAPTER XXV.

The mind of man, alone, as constituting the glory and meaning of astronomy—Pascal and his last reflections—The mind of man and its own nobler, and infinitely more majestic astronomy 209

CHAPTER XXVI.

Whether the soul of man hath aught with the wonders of the star-universe—Whether it hath anything substantially in relation to them—Phenomena of matter, and destinies of spirit—The alchemists—Revelation the hope as equally of philosophers as of all men—The sublime reality of existence only distinct and justified in the person of the Immaculate Redeemer 213

CHAPTER XXVII.

Close of the argument—Object of the book—Display of learning avoided—A certain group of books—"Anaclypsis"—"The Celtic Druids"—Unguarded disclosures avoided—Conclusion 217

APPENDIX A.

History of the Magi—Examination into the Universal truth symbolised in the ancient mysteries—The Cabiri—Traces of them—Their strange worship—Origin and reality of magic—Historical resumé. 223

APPENDIX B.

The Rosicrucians—General Ignorance of the real meaning of their extraordinary philosophy—Rosicrucians as Paracelsians or Magnetists—The lore of the Hermetic Brethren the groundwork of all present philosophy 240

CONCLUSION.

Is all chance?—Modern science and Superstition—Views of a modern Agnostic—Schopenhauer's philosophy—John Stuart Mill's writings—Spiritual Manifestations 245