PREFACE.

The Tracts collected in this Volume were written by another, and have been published separately at different times during the last few years. Some of them have been re-printed in this country, and in America, by those who have had a sense of their value, and of their fitness to meet the special need of the present time.

They are now brought together, and re-issued in this form, as a faithful witness, of no uncertain voice, against the religious profession of this day, in which, under the influence of leaders of all patterns, full of talk and natural zeal, the simple are being deceived, and shadows universally mistaken for the Divine Substance : and as an indication, to those who desire it, of the only true and living Way, by which the creature is brought under the Divine operation, and made to know God.
