SIR EDWARD J. REED

POEMS

Poems

‘Mr. Reed’s muse wears the same robe of purple words, and moves to the same measures as Mr. Tennyson’s, but this she does with such grace, and possesses so real a beauty of her own, that we are sorry to have to make any deductions on the Laureate’s account.’—The Athenæum, Feb. 27th, 1858.

‘My father spoke at this time warmly of the gallant spirit of Sir Edward Reed’s lines on the Fleet in the St. James’ Gazette.’—Memoirs of Lord Tennyson by his Son, page 386, vol. ii.
