NOTE.—Acknowledgment is due to Privy Councillor Stroscicker, of the Imperial Railway Administration in Germany, who has carefully edited the essay entitled "Considerations in the Choice of Railway Routes." The footnotes which he has added are indicated by the letters, Str. The other footnotes throughout the volume are for the most part from the pen of Moussier himself.

It should be remarked that in this volume the terms mile, rod, etc., refer to the German scale of measurement, unless a different scale is expressly mentioned.
