Prefatory.

Your Fathers, where are they?
And the Prophets, do they live forever?

The Righteous shall be in Everlasting Remembrance.

A Book of Remembrance was written before Him for them that feared the Lord, and that thought upon His Name.

Walk about Zion, and go round about her; tell the towers thereof: Mark ye well her bulwarks, consider her palaces; that ye may tell it to the Generation following.

If I forget Thee, O Jerusalem, let my right hand forget her cunning: If I do not remember Thee, let my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth; if I prefer not Jerusalem above my chief joy.

CONTENTS

CHAPTER FIRST.

AMERICAN PRESBYTERIANISM.

ITS TRANSPLANTATION AND DEVELOPMENT.

EUROPEAN PROTESTANTISM imported to America: its varieties and locations. General conditions of development: 1. progressive sundering of European connections; 2. geographic collocation and commingling; 3. separation between Church and State—voluntaryism; 4. liberty of thought and of speech. PRESBYTERIANISM transplanted, subject to these conditions; history of its introduction; its development, doctrinal, ecclesiastical. DOCTRINAL BASIS, Calvinistic, Westminster Symbols adopted, 1729; conflicting views of interpretation and subscription; consequent disruption, 1741. Reunion of 1758, its basis and character; liberal rule of subscription. Church increase and expansion subsequent; native ministry provided for; spiritual depression during Revolutionary War. First General Assembly, 1788; its doctrinal position and standards; denominational extension; gracious revivals amid current unbelief. The Cumberland Schism, its occasion, nature, issues; estimate of the event. ECCLESIASTICAL BASIS: the Presbyterian polity, its affinities with Calvinism. European type modified in America; liberal administration preferred; union of 1758 an illustration; the Cumberland division a departure; further development of polity. FIRST CENTURY OF THE CHURCH.

CHAPTER SECOND.

THE DISRUPTION OF 1837.

SECOND CENTURY opening auspiciously; conditions of conflict remaining; general statement. CAUSES OF DISRUPTION named: 1. differences in interpretation of confessional doctrine; 2. questions respecting liberty in subscription—toleration; 3. issues as to church polity—loyalty to Presbyterian system; 4. as to undenominational or ecclesiastical agencies in Christian work; 5. diverse estimates of revivals; 6. duty of the Church respecting slavery. Each of these causes described: centers of antagonism noted. PLOYS OF UNION, further occasion of conflict: Plan described: its practical workings; ground of difference. THE DISRUPTION: earlier stages — trials of Barnes, Duffield, Beecher; Edwardean Calvinism arraigned; growing divergence in doctrine; ecclesiastical and other issues involved. Later stages: rupture becoming inevitable. Plan of Union challenged; Assembly discussions and struggles; the final excision, — an extra-constitutional procedure.

CHAPTER THIRD. GENESIS AND EVOLUTION, 1835-1849

THE EXCLUDED PARTY: its perplexed condition; synods and presbyteries maintained; adverse influences. AUBURN CONVENTION, first step toward organization; its members and character; protest against the disruption; ecclesiastical procedure determined upon. THE AUBURN DECLARATION, its origin, doctrinal contents, mediate character; not a creed but a commentary. SUBSEQUENT EVENTS: Commissioners to the Assembly of 1838, their admission refused, consequent struggle for organization, withdrawal; another Assembly constituted. ASSEMBLY OF 1838, its composition and acts; protest against the excision; steps toward full organization; condition of the churches; its Pastoral Letter. ASSEMBLY OF 1839; growth of the young Church; Proceedings of the Assembly; division of property sought; doctrinal soundness affirmed; organization progressing; another Pastoral Letter. ASSEMBLY OF 1840; attendance; general temper; growth of the Church amid struggles; revivals reported; undenominational societies approved. Declaration of Principles issued; change to triennial Assemblies. ASSEMBLY OF 1843, its composition and spirit, action on various subjects; general position more fully defined. Narrative of Religion indicates progress; discouragements, antagonism, state of the Church. Hope of reconciliation and union given up. ASSEMBLY, 1846-47; process of evolution going on, amid hindrances; fellowship with other Churches; protracted discussion respecting slavery; return to annual Assemblies agreed upon. Adjourned to meet in 1847; doubts as to constitutionality of this meeting, only routine business transacted; special interest in home missions. ASSEMBLY OF 1849; close of first decade; growth and consolidation reported; Church realizing its position and mission. Action on various subjects, including slavery; denominational extension discussed; comparative statistics.

CHAPTER FOURTH. ORGANIZATION AND ADVANCE, 1850-1859

SECOND PERIOD now dawning; general condition, prospect of further growth, the problem of organization. ASSEM-BLY OF 1850; twelve States represented. Home missions the central subject; church extension urged, denominational responsibility; obstacles to growth removed. Position and claims of the Church; an important book of defense. ASSEMBLY OF 1851; place and attendance; its transactions, deliverances on various subjects,—the Sabbath, temperance, slavery. Church extension advocated; revivals reported; protest against church rivalry. ASSEMBLY OF 1852, convened in Washington. Three important measures adopted: 1. Denominational agency for home missions; relations to Amer. H. M. Society. 2. Education for the ministry, theological seminaries, Western Education Society. 3. Publication of church literature; Quarterly Review. New departure determined. ASSEMBLY OF 1853, plans of preceding year followed; home missions, education, tract publication. A fourth measure, church erection; fund provided. Debate on slavery. Revivals noted. ASSEMBLIES OF 1854, 1855, 1856. General situation favorable. Church extension still the controlling interest; four main departments reviewed. Church organization matured; fraternal correspondence maintained; action on various subjects. Many revivals, but no net growth; causes noted. ASSEMBLY OF 1857; large attendance. Church extension; growth of denominational feeling. Protracted debate on slavery; deliverance adopted; withdrawal of southern commissioners. Formation of the United Synod South; statistics of the secession. ASSEMBLIES OF 1858, 1859; Church development the chief interest; important reports on missions, education, publication, church erection. Organization now complete; obstructions to progress removed. Religious life and activity. Review of the entire decade.

CHAPTER FIFTH.

MATURITY AND CONSUMMATION.

CHURCH GROWTH described; third and final decade; two main events, the Civil War, and Church Union, mark the period. ASSEMBLY OF 1860; home missions; connection with Amer. H. M. Society dissolved; Church erection fund distribution; ministerial education considered. Connection with Amer. B. C. Foreign Missions continued. ASSEMBLY OF 1861, large attendance; Civil War begun. Peril to all church work involved; each department carefully considered. Bible and Tract Societies endorsed. Declaration of loyalty to the Government adopted; prayer for President Lincoln, for the army, for the country enjoined. ASSEMBLIES OF 1862, 1863, 1864; Activity in all church work; special difficulties encountered. Plan for ministerial relief instituted; systematic beneficence urged. Narratives of Religion encouraging. Repeated declarations of loyalty; letters to the President; committee sent
