BY WAY OF DEDICATION.

MY DEAR POLLY, — When a few of these papers had appeared in “The Courant,” I was encouraged to continue them by hearing that they had at least one reader who read them with the serious mind from which alone profit is to be expected. It was a maiden lady, who, I am sure, was no more to blame for her singleness than for her age ; and she looked to these honest sketches of experience for that aid which the professional agricultural papers could not give in the management of the little bit of garden which she called her own. She may have been my only disciple ; and I confess that the thought of her yielding a simple faith to what a gain-saying world may have regarded with levity has contributed much to give an increased practical turn to my reports of what I know
