

A MILITARY GENIUS; LIFE OF ANNA
ELLA CARROLL, OF MARYLAND, ("THE
GREAT UNRECOGNIZED
MEMBER OF LINCOLN'S CABINET.")
COMPILED FROM FAMILY RECORDS
AND CONGRESSIONAL DOCUMENTS

Published @ 2017 Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd

ISBN 9780649243341

A military genius; life of Anna Ella Carroll, of Maryland, ("the great unrecognized member of Lincoln's cabinet.") Compiled from family records and congressional documents by Sarah Ellen Blackwell

Except for use in any review, the reproduction or utilisation of this work in whole or in part in any form by any electronic, mechanical or other means, now known or hereafter invented, including xerography, photocopying and recording, or in any information storage or retrieval system, is forbidden without the permission of the publisher, Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd, PO Box 1576 Collingwood, Victoria 3066 Australia.

All rights reserved.

Edited by Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd.
Cover @ 2017

This book is sold subject to the condition that it shall not, by way of trade or otherwise, be lent, re-sold, hired out, or otherwise circulated without the publisher's prior consent in any form or binding or cover other than that in which it is published and without a similar condition including this condition being imposed on the subsequent purchaser.

www.triestepublishing.com

SARAH ELLEN BLACKWELL

A MILITARY GENIUS; LIFE OF ANNA
ELLA CARROLL, OF MARYLAND, ("THE
GREAT UNRECOGNIZED
MEMBER OF LINCOLN'S CABINET.")
COMPILED FROM FAMILY RECORDS
AND CONGRESSIONAL DOCUMENTS

Anna Eliza Carroll

W. DAVENANT

The long years come and go,
And the Past,
The sorrowful splendid Past,
With its glory and its woe,
Seems never to have been.

Seems never to have been!
O somber days and grand,
How ye crowd back once more,
Seeing our heroes graves are green
By the Potomac, and the Cumberland
And in the valley of the Shenandoah!

When we remember how they died,
In dark ravine and on the mountain side,
In leaguered fort and fire-encircled town,
And where the iron ships went down,
How their dear lives were spent
In the weary hospital tent,
In the cockpit's crowded hive,
—— it seems
Ignoble to be alive!

THOMAS BAILEY ALDRICH.

CONTENTS.

CHAPTER I.

Ancestry and Old Plantation Life	I
--	---

CHAPTER II.

Childhood and Early Life—Miss Carroll's Youthful Letters to Her Father—Religious Tendencies—Letters from Dr. Robert J. Breckeuridge—Sale of Kingston Hall—Early Writings—Letter of Hon. Edward Bates—Breaking Out of the Civil War—Preoccupation in Military Affairs	14
--	----

CHAPTER III.

Rise of the Secession Movement—The Capital in Danger—Miss Carroll's Literary Labors for the Cause of the Union—Testimonials from Eminent Men	31
--	----

CHAPTER IV.

The Military Situation—Goes to St. Louis—Inception of the Plan of the Tennessee Campaign—Gives in The Plan at the War Department—President Lincoln's Delight at the Solution of the Problem—Account Written in 1889—Judge Wade at Bull Run—Formation of the Committee for the Conduct of the War	59
--	----

CHAPTER V.

- Miss Carroll's Papers to the War Department—Plan of Campaign—Letters from Scott, Wade, and Others—Discussions—Papers as the Campaign Progresses 81

CHAPTER VI.

- Congressional Revelations—Great Results—Discussions—Miss Carroll Presents Her Claim—Political Opposition—Letters and Testimony 105

CHAPTER VII.

- Miss Carroll's Pamphlets in Aid of the Administration—The Presentation of the Bill 124

CHAPTER VIII.

- Miss Carroll Before Congress 132

CHAPTER IX.

- A Wounded Veteran Retires from the Field—Interview with Grant—The Women of America make the Cause Their Own—A National Lesson 150

PREFACE.

In commencing the attempt to portray a very remarkable career I had hoped for the coöperation of the person concerned so far, at least, as the supervision of any statements I might find it necessary to make. But it was decided by her friends that it would not be well for her at present to be troubled with new projects, or even informed of them. It was at first a serious disappointment to me and seemed to increase my difficulties, but as I was allowed access to sources of family information I have been enabled to present a sketch, slight and inadequate, but authentic, and greatly desired by many distant friends. With continued improvement in health I trust that the wishes of Miss Carroll's friends may be better met by an autobiography taking the place of the present meager and imperfect sketch.

It should be at once understood that this is not a plea for Miss Carroll.

Her work has but to be fairly presented to speak for itself.

Her claim was settled once and forever by the evidence given before the first Military Committee of 1871, met to consider the claim, and reporting, through Senator Howard, unanimously endorsing every fact. The Assistant Secretary of War, Thomas A. Scott, the Chairman of the Committee for the Conduct of the War, Benjamin F. Wade, and Judge Evans, of Texas, testifying in a manner that was conclusive. These men knew what they were talking about and human testimony could no farther go. Congress, through its committees, has again and again endorsed the claim, and never denied it, being "adverse" only to award as involving national recognition.

Our great generals have left us one by one without ever antagonizing the claim, and General Grant advised Miss Carroll to continue to push her claim for recognition.

But this work is to be considered rather in the light of an historical research bearing on questions of the day.

Are our present laws and customs just toward women? Are women ever preëminently fitted for high offices in the State? Is it for our honor and advantage when so fitted to avail ourselves of the whole united intellect and moral power of men and women side by side in peril and in duty? Such a life as this gives to all these questions the authoritative answer of established facts.

NEW YORK, April 21st, 1891. (Summer address, Lawrence, Long Island, N. Y.)

Miss Carroll's address is 931 New Hampshire Avenue, Washington, D. C.