POEMS.

LAND-LOCKED.

BLACK lie the hills, swiftly doth daylight flee, And catching gleams of sunset's dying smile, Through the dusk land for many a changing mile The river runneth softly to the sea.

O happy river, could I follow thee!

O yearning heart, that never can be still!

O wistful eyes, that watch the steadfast hill,

Longing for level line of solemn sea,

Have patience, — here are flowers and songs of birds,

Beauty and fragrance, wealth of sound and sight, All summer's glory thine from morn till night, And life too full of joy for uttered words.

6

Neither am I ungrateful: — but I dream Deliciously, how twilight falls to-night Over the glimmering water, how the light Dies blissfully away, until I seem

To feel the wind sea-scented on my cheek,

To catch the sound of dusky flapping sail

And dip of oars, and voices on the gale

Afar off, calling low; — my name they speak!

O Earth! thy summer song of joy may soar Ringing to heaven in triumph. I but crave The sad, caressing murmur of the wave That breaks in tender music on the shore.

OFF SHORE.

ROCK, little boat, beneath the quiet sky, Only the stars behold us where we lie, — Only the stars and yonder brightening moon.

On the wide sea to-night alone are we; The sweet, bright summer day dies silently, Its glowing sunset will have faded soon.

Rock softly, little boat, the while I mark The far off gliding sails, distinct and dark, Across the west pass steadily and slow.

But on the eastern waters sad, they change And vanish, dream-like, gray, and cold, and strange, And no one knoweth whither they may go.

We care not, we, drifting with wind and tide, While glad waves darken upon either side, Save where the moon sends silver sparkles down. And yonder slender stream of changing light, Now white, now crimson, tremulously bright, Where dark the light-house stands, with fiery crown.

Thick falls the dew, soundless on sea and shore: It shines on little boat and idle oar, Wherever moonbeams touch with tranquil glow.

The waves are full of whispers wild and sweet; They call to me, — incessantly they beat Along the boat from stern to curved prow.

Comes the careering wind, blows back my hair, All damp with dew, to kiss me unaware, Murmuring "Thee I love," and passes on.

Sweet sounds on rocky shores the distant rote; O could we float forever, little boat, Under the blissful sky drifting alone!
