Dear Sir:-

It is with very great pleasure I offer you a copy of my little book - The result of my first efforts is not a very pretentious one, but I shall feel honored to have it occupy even so obscure a corner in your collection.

Very sincerely yours,

Doris Hunter La Zansky

Between the Lines

If in an idle moment you should look,
Upon some page of this—my little book;
I'm sure, dear one, your keen thought will divine,
The "love" that's written plainly 'neath each line.

Each simple verse in color dark or bright May tell a little story—as I write,
But 'tween each line in "white" I send to-day,
My "love"—for white will never fade away.
