THIS book gives a general outline of the leading principles of political economy as they are illustrated in the commercial life of modern peoples, and of our own nation more particularly.

It is no more than the beginning of a study ; but perhaps it may be sufficiently lucid to induce some readers to carry out the study for themselves and help others to do the like.

CONTENTS

CHAPTER I

GENERAL OUTLINE

	PAGE
What Economy and Political Economy are. What Wealth is. Economy of Societies not merely Economy of Individual "writ large." Abstract consideration of Certain Motives desirable. Craving for Comforts. Consumption and Final Utility. Division of Labour. Extent of the Market. Value. Difficulties of Barter. Money. Barter not Superseded. Main elements of Modern Economy. Whence Differences in Value? Abundance and Scarcity partly dependent on Cost. Cost Varies partly with the Market. Value not explainable by Cost— involves Desire plus Limit. Why Value not simply equal to Cost. With Division of Labour, not only Supply, and Demand, and Labour, but Capital, Profits, Wages. Capital— what it involves. Relation to Time—Phenomenon of Interest. Profits, Rent. Separation of Functions not same as Distinction of them. The Separation perhaps not the Final Economy. Technical Advance irrevocable and universal. Tendency, in spite of Governments, of the whole world to become One Country	I

CHAPTER II

VALUE

Production, Distribution, and Consumption. The Two Senses of Value. Value in Exchange the more Measurable. Analogy of Statistical Data. Normal Price. Modern Goods, and Elastic Response of Supply and Demand to Price. Relation to Price of the Costliest Part of Supply. Does Price determine the Margin, or vice versa ? Marginal Products and Marginal Sellers. Particular Cost in Relation to Price. Low Prices and Extended Economies. Monopolies. Intermediate Cases .	31

CHAPTER III

CAPITAL

	PAGE
Defined. Definition may include Land. Capital as a Tool, and as Provision for the Future. Few things "obviously Capital," and alternatives only too open in modern times for spending wealth. Abstinence and Providence. Present and Future—how related in Work done with Capital. Calculation of greater Gain. Longer Ways the more profitable. But within Limits. Capital in less abundance than other Wealth. Hence Interest. Embodied in distinct Classes, Lenders, and Employers. Borrowed Capital and Cost. Renewal of Capital probable. Conditions of the Renewal	45

CHAPTER IV

WAGES AND RENT

Wages part of Cost, but Men never mere Instruments. In what sense Wages more Flexible than other Items of Cost. Not at least Inflexible (Wages Fund). Skilled in relation to Unskilled Labour. Workmen's Minimum not of Bare Living. A Market not in same sense for Labour as for Goods. No part of Employer's Capital a fund for Wages. Wages not directly paid out of Produce. Trades Societies. Labour not Constant. Trades Unions and their Power to raise Wages. Relation of Wages to Population. Relation of Population to Rent. Wages as a Bare Living hardly ever exemplified. Effects of the high or low price of Food. Improvements in Agriculture. Present System perhaps Politically recommendable, but not therefore best Economically	60
