FOREWORD

The title of this book is a correct one, except as to the first and second chapters, which relate to events which preceded the date of General R. E. Lee's assumption of the command of the Army of Northern Virginia in June, 1862. These events were preliminary to the formation of that army and disciplinary for its arduous and exciting duties. The narrative of them may well serve as an introduction to the account that follows of service on a larger scale under "Job" Stuart and Hampton.

G. W. BEALE.
