PREFACE.

CODE, p. 10.—STANDARD II.

“To read with intelligence a short paragraph from an Elementary Reading Book.”

It has been attempted, both in the little story and in the other Easy Lessons, to make the reading really interesting. The whole book is original and specially written.

If schoolmistresses teach, in addition to a sound religious and moral education, needlework, and domestic economy, a real love for good reading, they will effect great permanent good in the country.

The pronunciation should be carefully attended to.

The illustrations have all been specially prepared, and attention should be drawn to them as often as possible.

The words at the head of the Lessons should be spelled and explained in easy sentences.

No child should be allowed to place its thumb in the middle of the book, and the reason for the prohibition should be given.
