

LIFE OF SAMUEL JOHNSON

Published @ 2017 Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd

ISBN 9780649304417

Life of Samuel Johnson by F. Grant

Except for use in any review, the reproduction or utilisation of this work in whole or in part in any form by any electronic, mechanical or other means, now known or hereafter invented, including xerography, photocopying and recording, or in any information storage or retrieval system, is forbidden without the permission of the publisher, Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd, PO Box 1576 Collingwood, Victoria 3066 Australia.

All rights reserved.

Edited by Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd.
Cover @ 2017

This book is sold subject to the condition that it shall not, by way of trade or otherwise, be lent, re-sold, hired out, or otherwise circulated without the publisher's prior consent in any form or binding or cover other than that in which it is published and without a similar condition including this condition being imposed on the subsequent purchaser.

www.triestepublishing.com

F. GRANT

LIFE OF SAMUEL JOHNSON

39

I

140

LIFE OF
SAMUEL JOHNSON

BY LIEUT.-COL. F. GRANT

LONDON
WALTER SCOTT
24 WARWICK LANE, PATERNOSTER ROW
1857

CONTENTS.

CHAPTER I.

	PAGE
Marriage of Samuel Johnson's parents (1706) ; his birth (1709) ; taken to London to be touched by the Queen "for the evil" (1712) ; his brother Nathaniel ; goes to Dame Oliver's school ; is taught by Tom Brown ; at Lichfield Grammar School ; his Lichfield schoolfellows ; passes some time with his uncle, Cornelius Ford ; goes to Stourbridge School (1724) ; returns to his father's house ; his disobedience to his father, and subsequent atonement ; his knowledge of books ; it is resolved to send him to Oxford	11

CHAPTER II.

Johnson entered at Pembroke College, Oxford (1728) ; his arrival at the University ; Oxford in Johnson's days ; translates Pope's "Messiah" into Latin hexameters ; his college career ; controversy as to the length of time he remained at Oxford ; his college contemporaries ; his meeting in after life, with Edwards, a fellow collegian (1778) ; leaves Oxford (1731) ; returns home ; death of his father (December, 1731) ; social position of Michael Johnson (father of S. J.) ; Samuel Johnson resolves to adopt literature as a profession ; society at Lichfield (1731-36) ; usher at Market Bosworth (1732) ; private tutor in the Whitby family ; spends six months at Birmingham with E. Hector ; translates Father Lobo's "Voyage to Abyssinia" ; writes to E. Cave, editor of Gentleman's Magazine, offering literary contributions; applies for mastership of Solihull School; his marriage (1735); sets up a school at Edial Hall; resolves to go to London	21

--	----

CHAPTER III.

Johnson's tragedy of "Irene" commenced at Edial Hall; goes to London with David Garrick (1737); takes a room in Exeter Street, Strand; his manner of life in London; borrows £5 of Mr. Wilcox, who advises S. J. to buy a porter's knot; goes to Greenwich; writes to E. Cave, proposing to translate Sarpi's "History of the Council of Trent"; becomes connected with The Gentleman's Magazine ; sketch of E. Cave's career; writes in Gentleman's Magazine ; Johnson goes to Lichfield; returns to London with his wife; his tragedy of "Irene" finished; refused by Mr. Fleetwood, patentee of Drury Lane; becomes a regular contributor to Gentleman's Magazine (1738); publishes his poem of "London" (1738); receives ten guineas as copyright; Paul Whitehead; appearance of first of Pope's two "Dialogues"; applies for mastership of Appleby School; Lord Gower's unsuccessful attempt to procure a diploma of M.A. for Johnson; Pope's letter referring to the incident; Johnson publishes "Marmor Norfolciense" (1739); reports parliamentary debates for Gentleman's Magazine ; other literary work; Hon. Henry Hervey takes a house in London; death of Richard Savage (1743); sketch of Savage's career; Johnson publishes "Life of Savage" (1744); Johnson assists in editing Gentleman's Magazine ; agrees to compile an English Dictionary (1746); publishes the "Plan" of the dictionary; dedicates it to Lord Chesterfield (1747); Johnson and his wife visit Tunbridge Wells (1748); publishes "The Vanity of Human Wishes" (1749)	38
---	----

CHAPTER IV.

"Irene" acted at Drury Lane (1749); description of first night of the play; The Rambler commenced (1750); death of Johnson's wife (1752); Mrs. Williams becomes an inmate of his house; mention of Johnson and Mrs. Williams in Mrs. Chapone's letter to Miss E. Carter; second volume of dictionary commenced (1753); dictionary finished (1754); visits Oxford; degree of M.A. conferred on John-
--

CONTENTS.

7

	PAGE
son; dictionary published (April 15, 1755); refuses to dedicate dictionary to Lord Chesterfield; his letter to Lord Chesterfield; Johnson still in great poverty; Adler commenced (1758); death of Johnson's mother (1759); writes "Rasselas" (1759); fancied resemblance between "Rasselas" and Voltaire's "Candide"; Johnson's London residences; his two letters to Baretti (1761 and 1762); the king grants Johnson a pension of £300 a year . . .	55

CHAPTER V.

Definition of a pension in Johnson's dictionary; political affairs in Johnson's time; death of Lucy Porter's brother; Johnson's introduction to Boswell (1763); Boswell calls upon Johnson; Boswell has supper with Johnson at the Mitre; Boswell takes "minutes of what passed;" Johnson's appreciation of Goldsmith; Boswell; his supper at the Mitre with Johnson and Goldsmith; Johnson's friendship for Bennet Langton; his acquaintance with Topham Beauclerk	73
---	----

CHAPTER VI.

Formation of "The Club" (1764); Ivy Lane Club; Johnson's regard for Burke; his close intimacy with Reynolds; sale of MS. of Goldsmith's "Vicar of Wakefield"; makes acquaintance with the Thrales (1765); character of Mrs. Thrale; visits Cambridge with Beauclerk; publication of Johnson's "Shakespeare" (1765); Johnson established in Johnson's Court; his letter to Langton; Boswell arrives in London (1766); passes the evening with Goldsmith at Johnson's house; Johnson's interview with George III. (1767); visits Lichfield; his farewell interview with his mother's old servant, Catherine Chambers; Boswell arrives in London (1769); entertains Johnson, Reynolds, and Goldsmith at a dinner in his chambers; Johnson publishes the "False Alarm" (1770); Burke's "Thoughts on the Cause of the Present Discontents"; Johnson publishes his pamphlet on "Falkland's Islands" (1771); Boswell dines for the first time at Johnson's house; Johnson's journey to the Hebrides	87
--	----

CHAPTER VII.

- Johnson's Welsh tour with the Thrales (1774); his diary of the tour; accompanies the Thrales to Paris (1775); meets a niece of Arabella Fermor at the English convent of St. Augustine; "Histoire du Prince Titi"; writes the "Patriot" (1774); writes "Taxation no Tyranny" (1775); doctor's degree conferred on Johnson by University of Oxford (1775); his quarrel with Macpherson; variety of Johnson's acquaintance; has supper at Mrs. Abington's house; moves to Bolt Court (1776); description of Johnson's house in Bolt Court; his trip with Boswell to Oxford, Birmingham, and Lichfield; hears of Harry Thrale's death; hastens his return to London; meets Jack Wilkes at a dinner party at Mr. Dilly's house; his controversy with Mrs. Knowles 104

CHAPTER VIII.

- Johnson writes Latin epitaph for Goldsmith's monument; the "Club" sends Round Robin suggesting that the inscription should be in English; undertakes "Lives of the Poets" (1777); makes acquaintance with Fanny Burney (1778); the society at Streatham; Sophy Streatfield; Johnson's kindness to poor authors; deaths of Garrick (1779), of Beauclerk (1780), of Mr. Thrale (1781); dinner at Mrs. Garrick's; Miss Hannah More; visits Oxford, Lichfield, Birmingham, and Ashbourne; death of Robert Levett (1782); Johnson struck with paralysis (1783); his partial recovery; death of Mrs. Williams; Mrs. Siddons's visit to Bolt Court; meeting of survivors of Ivy Lane Club; Boswell arrives in London; Johnson and Boswell visit Oxford; Johnson dines for last time at the Club (June 22, 1784); interview with Mary Wollstonecraft; Boswell's last farewell of Johnson (June 30); Mrs. Thrale announces to Johnson her intended marriage; he visits Ashbourne, Lichfield, Birmingham, and Oxford; returns to London (November 17); is aware of his approaching death; unremitting attention of his friends; his last illness; his death (December 13, 1784); his funeral 122

CHAPTER IX.

- Johnson's character; his powers as a critic; his literary judgments; religious feeling, and state of the Church of

CONTENTS.

9

	PAGE
England during latter half of eighteenth century ; English literature in Johnson's time ; Topham Beauclerk's library ; Johnson lives between two brilliant literary epochs ; Johnson as literary dictator ; his personal appearance ; various editions of Boswell's "Life" ; early biographies and notices of Johnson ; Johnson a link between the Augustan and Victorian eras ; centenary of Johnson's death	150
INDEX	171

