OUR COMMON INSECTS.

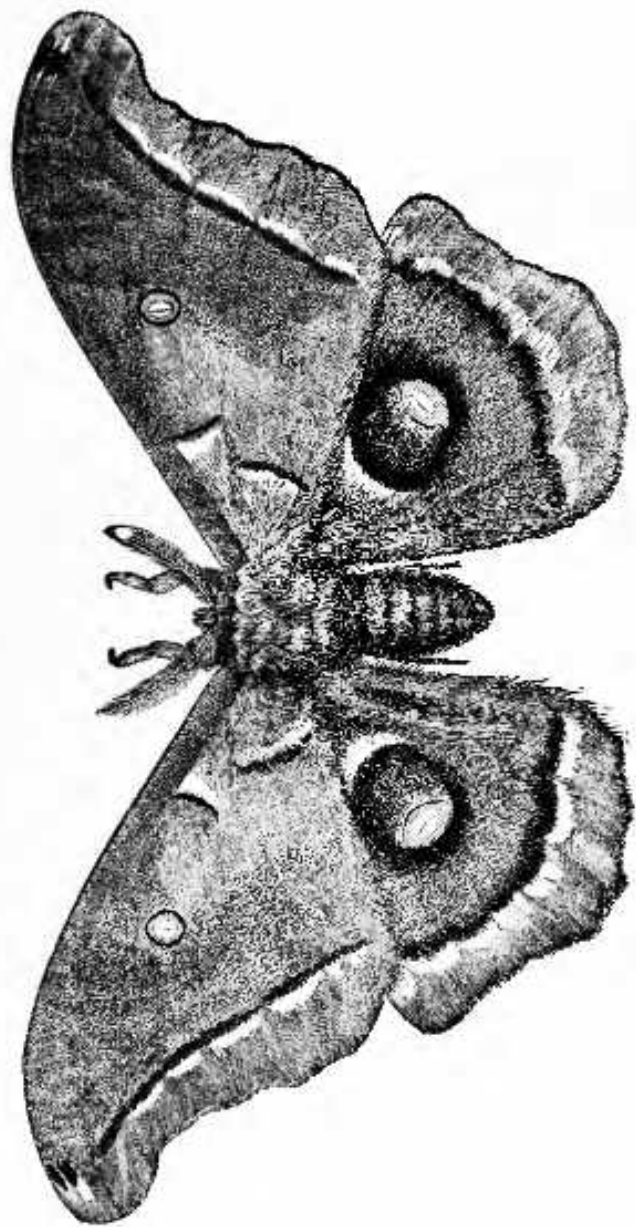

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. This includes not only sales and purchases but also the various expenses incurred in the course of business. It is essential to ensure that every receipt is properly filed and that the books are balanced at regular intervals.

In addition, the document emphasizes the need for transparency and honesty in all financial dealings. It is important to disclose all relevant information to the appropriate authorities and to maintain a high level of integrity in the management of the company's finances.

The second part of the document provides a detailed breakdown of the company's financial performance over the past year. This includes a comparison of actual results with budgeted figures and an analysis of the factors that have influenced the company's performance.

The analysis shows that the company has achieved a significant increase in revenue compared to the previous year, primarily due to the successful launch of new products and the expansion of sales channels. However, there has also been a corresponding increase in expenses, particularly in the areas of research and development and marketing.

Overall, the company's financial position remains strong, and it is well-positioned to continue its growth in the coming year. The management team is committed to maintaining the highest standards of financial reporting and to ensuring that the company's resources are used effectively to achieve its long-term goals.

DEDICATION.

TO SAMUEL H. SCUDDER.

MY DEAR SCUDDER:—You and I were drawn together many years ago by a common love for insects and their ways.

I dedicate this little volume of ephemeral essays to you in recognition of your worth as a man and a scientist, and as a token of warm friendship.

Yours sincerely,

A. S. PACKARD, JR.
