IN MEMORIAM
DONALD HANKEY

*Killed in action on the Somme, 12th October.
1916.*

THE news that Donald Hankey had fallen in action brought to thousands of people who had never seen him — and the present writer was one of these — the kind of poignant sense of loss which is usually associated with the death of an intimate personal friend. It was not merely that one felt that the Church and the nation had lost yet another man of brilliant gifts, who could ill be spared. The real secret of this sense of personal loss lay in the rich humanity, the extraordinary sympathy, the understanding of all sorts of men, which his writing revealed. We can almost
