DEDICATION.

TO MY BROTHER OFFICERS.

AFTER a period of thirty-seven years passed in the association of a large circle of my Naval Brethren, it is but natural that my thoughts should turn with more than ordinary feelings of regard, towards a profession, in which, from my earliest youth, I was educated, and wherein the most pleasing recollections, and the dearest ties of friendship are centered, and since, in these monotonous times of peace, our early pursuits are for the present laid aside: permit me, Gentlemen, to dedicate to you, the pastime of a few of those leisure hours, which an unwilling retirement to half-pay have long since placed at my disposal.

Should the contents of this little volume be thought worthy your perusal, should they hereafter prove beneficial to your children, or any portion of educated society, by withdrawing them from useless pursuits, and creating a love for this interesting study ; then will my object be gained, and I shall hope thereby to add one link more to those ties of friendship, and ensure a still more pleasing recollection of my early days.

I have the honour,

Gentlemen,

To subscribe myself,

Your devoted Friend,

ROWLAND MAINWARING.
