

LABOURERS IN THE VINEYARD:
DIORAMIC SCENES IN THE LIVES
OF EMINENT CHRISTIANS. WITH
A RECOMMENDATORY PREFACE

Published @ 2017 Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd

ISBN 9780649623464

Labourers in the Vineyard: Dioramic Scenes in the Lives of Eminent Christians. With a Recommendatory Preface by Matilda Horsburgh & A. K. H. Boyd

Except for use in any review, the reproduction or utilisation of this work in whole or in part in any form by any electronic, mechanical or other means, now known or hereafter invented, including xerography, photocopying and recording, or in any information storage or retrieval system, is forbidden without the permission of the publisher, Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd, PO Box 1576 Collingwood, Victoria 3066 Australia.

All rights reserved.

Edited by Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd.
Cover @ 2017

This book is sold subject to the condition that it shall not, by way of trade or otherwise, be lent, re-sold, hired out, or otherwise circulated without the publisher's prior consent in any form or binding or cover other than that in which it is published and without a similar condition including this condition being imposed on the subsequent purchaser.

www.triestepublishing.com

MATILDA HORSBURGH & A. K. H. BOYD

LABOURERS IN THE VINEYARD:
DIORAMIC SCENES IN THE LIVES
OF EMINENT CHRISTIANS. WITH
A RECOMMENDATORY PREFACE

LABOURERS IN THE VINEYARD.

Frontispiece.

THE CHRISTIAN PASTOR.

Page 24.

LABOURERS IN THE VINEYARD:

Pictorial Scenes

IN

The Lives of Eminent Christians.

By M. H.

AUTHOR OF

"THE STORY OF A RED VELVET BIBLE," "NOTHING TO DO," ETC.

With a Recommendatory Preface,

BY THE

REV. A. K. H. BOYD, B.A., D.D.,

ONE OF THE MINISTERS OF ST. ANDREW'S.

London:

HODDER AND STOUGHTON,

27, PATERNOSTER ROW.

MDCCLXXV.

1100. f. 5

Printed by Hazell, Watson, & Viney, Limited, London and Aylesbury.

PREFACE.

It is the purpose of this Volume to enforce and illustrate the great truth, that religion should be carried into all the details of daily life; and that Christian grace may eminently flourish in any lawful worldly calling. And as, to most minds, facts are more interesting and convincing than abstract reasonings, great part of the work has been given to delineating a specimen of a truly Christian man in each of the more marked walks of life. No argument to prove that a soldier, a statesman, or a physician, need find nothing in his profession inconsistent with the maintenance of a devout spirit, will be so generally satisfactory, or so practically useful, as the telling us the story of a man who, in one of these vocations, has actually succeeded in maintaining a devout spirit; and of his special helps and hindrances.

PREFACE.

It is a happy sign of the present time, that such thoughts are so often set forth in all religious teaching. It is, of course, nothing new; but it is an old truth of which we need to be reminded, that a sharp separation of human employments into secular and sacred is an entire mistake; and that all human work is secular or is sacred just according to the spirit in which it is gone through. It is Platonism rather than Christianity, to hold that there is anything necessarily debasing or materializing about the duties and the cares of daily life. All these duties and cares take their character from the spirit in which we pass through them. The simple French monk, five hundred years since, who acted as cook to his brethren, indicated the Christian's true path when he wrote, "I put my little egg-cake on the fire for the sake of Christ." And the saintly Herbert, more gracefully, has shown how, as the eye may either look on glass, or look through it, we may look no farther than the daily task, or may look through it to something nobler beyond.

Teach me, my God and King,
In all things Thee to see;
And what I do in anything,
To do it as for Thee.

PREFACE.

A servant with this clause,
Makes drudgery divine:
Who sweeps a room, as for Thy laws,
Makes that, and the action, fine.

For several years, the author of this Volume has been quite withdrawn by ill health from the common occupations and enjoyments of life. And she has felt, more deeply than almost any other, the trial that thus she has been cut off from that Christian usefulness to which it would have been her happiness to devote much of her strength and time. Of late, a much-valued opportunity of doing good has been permitted to the author, through the large circulation which has been attained by two little volumes which have preceded the present. These are characterised by serious thought, set forth in a very pleasing style; and by a spirit which is earnest without being severe or gloomy. And these pages, written amid much weariness and suffering, are now published, as the humble offering to the Good Cause of one who can help it in hardly any other way.

A. K. H. B.