ACKNOWLEDGMENT

THE writer realizes her great indebtedness — and hopes it may prove also the indebtedness of Deerfield Academy — to Mr. George Sheldon.

It would have been tiresome for writer and reader to have made this acknowledgment on every page, but if he had not written his admirable "History of Deerfield," this book would not have been written.

She is indebted also to Miss Baker for constant help, and for that portion of the Historic Sketch, from the settlement of the town to the massacre. To Mrs. Champney and Miss Isabel Williams for the use of their poems, and to Dr. Hale for his ballad. To Mrs. Arthur Ball for the list of flowers, and to Miss Margaret Miller for that of birds.
