PREFACE

THIS new edition of the lectures of Brother Azarias, delivered at Plattsburg in July, 1893, is an interesting history of the growth and development of educational institutions under the guiding hand of the Church.

Who that is acquainted with the writings of Brother Azarias need be assured of the treat in store for him in this volume?

In classic style, with an ease and grace that spring from a thorough knowledge of his subject, he sketches with a master's hand the efforts of our forefathers in the attainment of learning and the methods they adopted to accomplish their laudable object.

To many it will be a surprise to learn that the education of the young was a matter of great solicitude to the bishops and priests of the so-called Dark Ages.

Brother Azarias shows that primary schools were established and maintained, not by taxation, but by the self-denying efforts of teachers and the voluntary contributions of the people.

This volume contains a fund of knowledge in detail. It manifests a large reading, a retentive memory and power of condensation, without, however, the affectation of learning, the cumbersomeness of erudition, or the indistinctness of a too concise diction.

The book would prove useful and interesting to the students and professors in our colleges, seminaries and monasteries, and I hope it will meet the welcome it deserves.
