ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I AM indebted to the New York Evening Post, the New York Times, the New Republic, the New York World, the New York Sun, the Christian Science Monitor, and to other periodicals for permission to use the greater portion of the material contained in this book, and which was originally printed in their columns. This material has, however, all been edited and, in most instances, expanded to considerably greater length than when it first appeared.

It is through the courtesy of the Cornhill Publishing Company that I am able to reprint "I Am an American," which appears in Mr. Lieberman's book "Paved Streets." The New York Call has kindly given me permission to use the poem "On Foreigners" which first appeared in its columns.

The date of writing has been placed at the end of each chapter for the greater convenience of the reader.

Also I wish to express my gratitude to the staff of the Foreign Language Information Service for the constant assistance they have given me and the great patience they have displayed.
