PREFACE

THE stories in this volume pretend to be no more than stories. The amount of historical fact contained in them varies considerably, but in each case the main episode is fictitious. It is as a story-teller, and in no sense as a hagiographer that the author wishes to present his work.

Two of the stories—The White Road and The King's Visit—have already appeared in The Month, and are now republished with the kind permission of the editor. The Man's Hands is new.
