PREFACE

When the List of Serials in Public Libraries of Chicago and Evanston was published by the Chicago Library Club in 1901 the statement was made that The John Crerar Library proposed, if it proved to be of real service, to issue cumulative supplements. The present volume is the second of these supplements. The justification of its publication would seem to be ample, because of the proved usefulness of the original, not only for the purpose for which it was compiled, in giving information where a given volume of a serial can be consulted most conveniently, but also, and somewhat unexpectedly, as a convenience in the administration of the libraries. The inclusion of three new libraries and very considerable special purchases made by two of those already represented, have increased this second edition to such an extent that it is now larger than the original list and contains nearly as many new titles as were given in that publication. While this unexpected increase has delayed the preparation and made it more laborious, yet it also demonstrates the necessity of frequent revision to secure even approximately all the usefulness possible for the work. It is hoped that this is not slight, notwithstanding the imperfections almost inevitable in co-operative work, and certainly inevitable under the conditions of editing in this case.

The present edition contains the holdings, all corrected to June, and the five largest to November, of nineteen libraries of Chicago and Evanston. Three—the Chicago Law Institute (Lw.), the Northwestern University Law School (Nwl.), and the University of Illinois School of Pharmacy (P.)—have not been represented before. Each adds a number of titles not in any other; the sets of session laws and court reports of the first and the foreign legal journals of the second being especially remarkable. Besides these, The Newberry Library, by its purchase of the Bonaparte collection on philology, and The John Crerar Library, by its purchase of the Gerritsen collection on political science and political economy, have made wholly unusual contributions. Hardly one of the libraries, however, has failed to report a number of new titles, considerable in proportion to its previous holdings. That this increase in serials is only part of a general increase in the library resources of the city, is shown by the fact that the fifteen libraries represented in the original list, which reported in 1901 a total of 1,003,000 volumes on their shelves, now report a total of 1,318,500. The four libraries not in the original list add 199,500, making the total number of volumes on the shelves of the nineteen libraries in 1905 1,518,000.

This volume should be consulted first in all cases, even when reference to the desired title from an older form or from the society publishing it, or to the desired society from a place, is found only in the original list. For reprinted titles all the entries have been reprinted, so that it is unnecessary to consult the original for a title in the supplement. On the other hand, no titles have been reprinted except to give additional information or to correct errors of some importance, so that the entries for one publication of a society may be found in the supplement and for another in the original list. The only exceptions are the United States Government, the State of Illinois, and the City of Chicago, for which all titles have been reprinted from the original list, whether altered or not.

The supplement, like the original list, is intended to include all serials not purely administrative, of which a library has (1) five volumes or years in sequence; (2) one-half of the set if less than ten volumes or years; (3) the first or last volume if not in any other library. There have been included, also, though somewhat incompletely, all state documents and the publications of all Chicago societies and institutions, whether administrative or not.

PREFACE

One change in the method of entry has been made by unanimous consent of the larger libraries. The entry of foreign serials having individual titles under the society has proved so inconvenient that such serials are now entered under the title, in accordance with the rule for American and English publications. Reference has been made from the societies in all cases where their agency is known. References are made also from the place of location of a society to the name of the society, unless the reference occurs in the original list.

The changes in form of entry are very few. One or two minor changes have been made to secure greater clearness, and the capitalization has been altered to agree with the practice of The John Crerar Library. The alphabetical arrangement of foreign and English compound words has been made uniform.

There are in the supplement entries for some 8,460 serials and 1,310 references. Of the 8,460 serials, 5,240, or 62 per cent, are received currently, as against 57 per cent in the original list; 2,810, or 33 per cent, as against 36 per cent, are in languages other than English; 4,880, or 58 per cent, as against 65 per cent, occur in one library only; 1,790, or 21 per cent, as against 18 per cent, occur in two libraries only; 810, or 10 per cent, as against 9 per cent, are in three; 980, or 11 per cent, as against 8 per cent, are in four or more. The increased percentage of the last class, and the consequent diminution in the percentage of those found in one library only, are easily explained by the inclusion of state documents, which are received as gifts. Making due allowance for this, and taking into account the small diminution in the percentage of foreign titles, it would seem that the libraries of the city are maintaining their policy of discrimination and division of the field, and the standard of their acquisitions. Of the 8,460 entries, 2,020 are unaltered from the first edition of the Supplement, 2,020 are corrected entries from it, 1,270 are corrected entries from the original list, and 3,150 are new. The original list still contains 3,540 entries not reprinted, so that the total number of serials recorded is 12,000.

The thanks of The John Crerar Library are due to the authorities of the libraries represented for their cordial co-operation. The Editor desires to express personally his grateful thanks to his colleagues and their assistants, and also to the members of his own staff, for the care taken in the preparation of the contributions from the various libraries, and for their patience in answering his many questions. All have given the matter much attention, but to Mr. W. S. Merrill of The Newberry Library he is especially indebted for a general revision of the work, which has corrected many errors and cleared away many difficulties. The officials of the Library of the University of Chicago desire him to express their regret that circumstances prevented the revision of their entries from being as thorough as they wished it to be.

DESCRIPTIVE LIST OF LIBRARIES

A. ARMOUR INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY LIBRARY, Armour Avenue and Thirty-third Street.

Intended primarily for the students of the Institute, but open to the general public for reference use from 8 A. M. to 5 P. M. during the school year, Sundays excepted, and during the evening session from 7 to 9 P. M. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings.

The Library consists of over 19,500 volumes and 2,100 pamphlets, and is strongest in technical works, especially mechanical and electrical engineering. General literature, education, history, and biography have also received attention. It contains many complete sets of literary and scientific periodicals, and is fully equipped with indexes for use in reference work.

Librarian, MRS. JULIA BEVERIDGE.

At. THE RYERSON LIBRARY OF THE ART INSTITUTE, Michigan Avenue, opposite Adams Street.

Open daily throughout the year, with the exception of Sundays and holidays, from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M., to students of the art school and to members of the Institute, for reference and circulating use; practically made free for reference use to all serious students of art. During the months when the school is in session the Library remains open Monday, Wednesday and Friday until 7 P. M.

The Library of the Art Institute was founded in 1879, and occupied one of the large galleries of the Art Institute until October, 1901, when the new library building, the gift of Mr. Martin A. Ryerson, was completed and presented to the Art Institute. The Library is now known as the Ryerson Library of the Art Institute. June, 1905, the library contained 4,000 volumes, 16,000 Braun autotypes, and a miscellaneous collection of other photographs and engravings. The collection of autotypes was presented by Dr. D. K. Pearsons. A part of the reference library is the gift of Mrs. A. M. H. Ellis, and is called the Sumner Ellis Memorial Library, but is incorporated with the rest of the Library. The Library is almost exclusively devoted to works on fine art and is catalogued and classified in accordance with the Dewey classification.

Ay. CHICAGO ACADEMY OF SCIENCES, Matthew Lafin Memorial Building, Lincoln Park, opposite Center Street.

Primarily a reference library for the use of members of the Academy, but available to others. Open from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. each week day. On July 1st, 1905, the Library contained 23,000 volumes and pamphlets. It is composed principally of the publications of the learned societies of all countries, and is particularly rich in the literature of geology and the allied sciences.

Secretary, WILLIAM K. HIGLEY.

Acting Librarian, FRANK C. BAKER.

C. CHICAGO PUBLIC LIBRARY, Washington Street, Michigan Avenue, and Randolph Street.

The circulating department, free to citizens of Chicago, is open week days from 9 A. M. to 6.30 P. M. The reference and reading rooms are open to the public generally, week days from 9 A. M. to 10 P. M., on Sundays and holidays from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

The Library contained, June 1st, 1905, 304,510 volumes and about 55,000 unbound pamphlets. Of bound periodicals the Library possesses about 38,000 volumes, which may be consulted in the reference room but can-

A reference library of historical literature, consisting of 140,000 volumes, manuscripts, and pamphlets. Open to the public every week day from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. The field of the Library as defined by the Constitution of the Society is historical in the broadest sense, including the materials and sources of history, particularly of the states formed from the "Old Northwest Territory," the most notable among these sources being extensive collections of manuscripts, legislative documents, and early Illinois newspapers. The Library is supplemented by a collection of paintings and a Museum of relics illustrating the various historical periods in the exploration and development of the Mississippi Valley.
Librarian, CAROLINE M. McILVAINE.
- J. THE JOHN CRERAR LIBRARY, fifth and sixth floors Marshall Field & Company Building, entrance at 87 Wabash Avenue.

DESCRIPTIVE LIST OF LIBRARIES

A free reference library of scientific and technical literature, established in 1894 in accordance with the will of the late John Crerar. Open to the public from 9 A. M. to 10 P. M. every week day throughout the year. On June 1st, 1905, the Library contained 134,194 volumes and was in receipt of 1,959 periodicals, and about 4,000 other serials; additions are made at the rate of 12,000 volumes per annum. Its field, as determined by the Board of Directors, is that of the social, physical, and natural sciences, and their applications. It is the purpose of the Directors to develop the Library as systematically as possible on these lines. The only important exceptions are the recent purchases of the Ely collection on American Social Movements, and of the Gerretsen collection in the social sciences, especially political economy and the status of woman.

Librarian, CLEMENT W. ANDREWS.

Assistant Librarian, CHARLES J. BARR.

L. LEWIS INSTITUTE LIBRARY, West Madison and Robey Streets.

Essentially a reference library for the use of the students of the Institute. Open throughout the school year from 8 A. M. to 5:30 P. M., during the session of the night school until 9:30 P. M., and during the summer school from 9 A. M. to 4 P. M.

The Library contained April 1st, 1905, 12,000 volumes, and about 1,200 volumes are added yearly. It has developed in directions required to satisfy the most pressing interests of the various departments of the school and at the same time to make the nucleus of a working library for the general student. There are special departmental libraries connected with the class rooms in the natural science, engineering, and domestic economy.

Librarian, FRANCES S. TALCOTT.

Lw. CHICAGO LAW INSTITUTE, 414 Court House.

Essentially a law library for the use of stockholders of the Institute, and in special cases by others on permission of the Executive Committee. It is not open to the general public. The Library rooms are kept open during the year from 8:30 A. M. to 5:30 P. M. and from 6 to 9:30 P. M. Sundays, from 10 A. M. to 4 P. M. It is not open on legal holidays.
