

MEMORIALS OF A
YOUNG CHRISTIAN

Published @ 2017 Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd

ISBN 9780649450510

Memorials of a Young Christian by Harriet Catharine Grew

Except for use in any review, the reproduction or utilisation of this work in whole or in part in any form by any electronic, mechanical or other means, now known or hereafter invented, including xerography, photocopying and recording, or in any information storage or retrieval system, is forbidden without the permission of the publisher, Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd, PO Box 1576 Collingwood, Victoria 3066 Australia.

All rights reserved.

Edited by Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd.
Cover @ 2017

This book is sold subject to the condition that it shall not, by way of trade or otherwise, be lent, re-sold, hired out, or otherwise circulated without the publisher's prior consent in any form or binding or cover other than that in which it is published and without a similar condition including this condition being imposed on the subsequent purchaser.

www.triestepublishing.com

HARRIET CATHARINE GREW

MEMORIALS OF A YOUNG CHRISTIAN

P
J

MEMORIALS

OF

A YOUNG CHRISTIAN.

"AND THEY GLORIFIED GOD IN ME."

PHILADELPHIA:
MERRISHEW AND GORN, PRINTERS,
No. 7, Carter's Alley.
.....
1837.

U S 16977.85

Welsh fund

INDEX.

Extracts from the Private Journal of H. C. Grew,	9
Letters,	18

MISCELLANIES.

Rejoice Evermore,	31
Religion a Source of Happiness,	37
Discipline of the Mind,	39
Mutual influence of Christians,	42
The Christian,	44
Charity seeketh not her own,	45
Saturday Evening,	46
Apostrophic,	47
Evening,	48
A Birth Day,	48
A Thought on the Mind,	49
An Adieu to the Constellation Orion,	50
The River Euphrates,	51
The Social Virtues superior to the Heroic,	54
Associations and Feelings of Old Age,	56
The superiority of Talents to Wealth,	60
David,	63
The Golden Rule,	66
Address to the Constellation Orion,	68
Remember them that are in bonds,	69
The Millennium,	70
The Bible,	72
To my School Days,	73
"It is a fearful thing to love what death may touch,"	74
Heaven,	74
Invocation,	75
The Hour of Death,	76
On reading the "Remains of Henry Kirke White,"	77
To the Moon, after an Eclipse,	78

The Church,	79
Slavery,	80
Life,	81
To Summer,	82
"His Blood be on us and on our Children,"	83
Who can understand his Errors?	84
A Reverie,	84
Christ Walking on the Sea,	85
Like as a Father pitieth his Children, etc.,	87
To a Child,	88
To the Spirit of a departed Ance,	88
To the Buried Remains of the Same,	90
Jerusalem,	90
Acrostic,	91
Thank-Offering,	92
To the Flowers of Mount Auburn,	92
On the Death of an Infant Son of a Missionary,	93
Eve,	94
We trusted that it had been He which should have Redeemed Israel,	94
To Mrs. Dean, Missionary to Siam,	95
The Dying Year,	97
The Love of Christ,	98
On the Death of a Child,	99
Acrostic,	99
Oppression,	100
Acrostic,	100
An Hour of Sadness,	100
Fading Joys,	101
The Dying Child,	102
Doth the Hawk fly by thy Wisdom, etc.,	103
Written at a time of National Turbulence,	104
The Departing,	105
Farewell,	106

P R E F A C E .

To obtrude on the community, beyond the circle of her own acquaintance, any notice of the humble individual of this record, forms no part of the design of its publication. All her desires, and those of her friends on her behalf, are consummated. Perfected in the image of her Savior, she rests in her Father's bosom of everlasting love. It is believed, however, that among the various means instituted by divine wisdom, for the perfecting of the "good work" in the souls of the ransomed, one of peculiar interest and power, is the contemplation of holy principles, as they are developed in the spirit, conversation and life of the christian.

The fact that, amid so much commendable, characterizing the present era of the church, there exists an extensive deaension in personal piety, is confessed, but not sufficiently deplored. Who of us are adequately estimating the dishonor cast upon the Cross of Christ, or the spiritual loss sustained by the soul by our conformity to this present world! How much of thought and affection, beyond the call of duty, is wasted on the things which pass away, that might be appropriated to the accumulation of our eternal treasure in heaven!

If, by the divine blessing, the pious breathings here recorded, should be the means of calling back any wanderer to our Father's house, or of endearing, to any happy inmate of that house, its high privileges and holy duties, and of strengthening the resolution not to go abroad for joy, the design of the publication will be attained.

Philadelphia, November 20th, 1837.

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions and activities. It emphasizes that this is essential for ensuring transparency and accountability in the organization's operations.

2. The second part of the document outlines the various methods and tools used to collect and analyze data. It highlights the need for consistent data collection procedures and the use of advanced analytical techniques to derive meaningful insights from the data.

3. The third part of the document focuses on the role of technology in data management and analysis. It discusses how modern software solutions can streamline data collection, storage, and processing, thereby improving efficiency and reducing the risk of errors.

4. The fourth part of the document addresses the challenges associated with data security and privacy. It stresses the importance of implementing robust security measures to protect sensitive information and ensure compliance with relevant regulations.

5. The fifth part of the document concludes by summarizing the key findings and recommendations. It reiterates the importance of a data-driven approach and encourages the organization to continue investing in data management capabilities to drive long-term success.

MEMORIALS, ETC.

HARRIET CATHARINE GREW, daughter of HENRY and CATHARINE GREW, exhibited, at an early period, tenderness of conscience which excited hope that the seed of religious instruction was watered by the gracious influences of the Spirit of God. The effect of divine truth on her heart and life was observed with grateful joy by her friends. Drawn in loving kindness, a sinner polluted and perishing, to the Cross of salvation, she confessed her Savior, in the way of his own appointment, and was "buried with him in baptism" on Sunday, January 30, 1831. She was then fifteen years of age.

To the praise of divine love be it recorded, that until she was called to enter the house of "many mansions" prepared for the chosen, she adorned her profession by the meekness and gentleness of Christ, and by some humble imitation of his own example of practical love. That her short pilgrimage was marked with deviations from the highway of holiness, in which it is the duty of the christian ever to walk, was a truth perceived and lamented more by herself than by others.

It is important to observe, that the divine life in the soul was maintained and invigorated by a sacred regard and diligent use of the means the Lord has appointed for the sanctification of his children. The word of God was more precious to her than rubies. Not only did she read it: it was studied by "comparing spiritual things with spiritual." Conscious of her dependence on the Spirit of truth, she lifted her soul to God for the fulfilment of her Savior's promise, "he shall take of mine and shall shew it unto you." Thus she was enabled to discriminate between the mind of the Spirit and the doctrines and command-