

AIRCRAFT IN PEACE AND THE LAW

Published @ 2017 Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd

ISBN 9780649102525

Aircraft in peace and the law by J. M. Spaight

Except for use in any review, the reproduction or utilisation of this work in whole or in part in any form by any electronic, mechanical or other means, now known or hereafter invented, including xerography, photocopying and recording, or in any information storage or retrieval system, is forbidden without the permission of the publisher, Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd, PO Box 1576 Collingwood, Victoria 3066 Australia.

All rights reserved.

Edited by Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd.
Cover @ 2017

This book is sold subject to the condition that it shall not, by way of trade or otherwise, be lent, re-sold, hired out, or otherwise circulated without the publisher's prior consent in any form or binding or cover other than that in which it is published and without a similar condition including this condition being imposed on the subsequent purchaser.

www.triestepublishing.com

J. M. SPAIGHT

AIRCRAFT IN PEACE AND THE LAW

MACMILLAN AND CO., LIMITED
LONDON . BOMBAY . CALCUTTA . MADRAS
MELBOURNE

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY
NEW YORK . BOSTON . CHICAGO
DALLAS . SAN FRANCISCO

THE MACMILLAN CO. OF CANADA, LTD.
TORONTO

AIRCRAFT IN PEACE AND THE LAW

BY

J. M. SPAIGHT

G.E.R., LL.D., AUTHOR OF "AIRCRAFT IN WAR," ETC.

MACMILLAN AND CO., LIMITED
ST. MARTIN'S STREET, LONDON

1919

COPYRIGHT

ALL RIGHTS RESERVED
NO PART OF THIS PUBLICATION
MAY BE REPRODUCED OR TRANSMITTED IN ANY FORM OR BY ANY MEANS, ELECTRONIC OR MECHANICAL, INCLUDING
PHOTOCOPYING, RECORDING, OR
BY ANY INFORMATION STORAGE AND RETRIEVAL SYSTEM, WITHOUT PERMISSION IN WRITING FROM THE PUBLISHERS.

1. com- 15 Paris 1919 and

105
11
11

CONTENTS

CHAPTER I

AIR FRONTIERS

	PAGE
The Great War and the sovereignty of the air—The attitude of Germany—The attitude of Great Britain—Theory before the War—The Paris Conference of 1919—Weakness of the case for free circulation—Pre-war legislation presumed sovereignty—Air frontiers bolted and barred in August, 1914—The closure of the air frontiers a thorough one—The principle of sovereignty established—The International Convention and sovereignty in the air.	1

33
2

CHAPTER II

THE NATIONALITY AND REGISTRATION OF AIRCRAFT

Nationality and registration as conditions precedent to international circulation—The selection of a nationality: five possible choices—(1) The nationality of the country of construction—(2) The nationality of the country of registration—(3) The nationality of the country of the owner's domicile—(4) The nationality of the owner's own country of nationality—(5) The nationality of the country of the port d'attache —The maritime precedent a misleading one—The nationality and registration of ships—The difference between seacraft and aircraft—The "home" or "headquarters" country as governing nationality—The case of aircraft belonging to corporations—The purpose of registration—Registration as a "live" record—Weakness of the arguments as to the necessity for providing for (i) some law to be applied in the air;—and (ii) diplomatic protection and military requisition—A possible solution of the problem—The nationality of the crew	12
---	----

13

CHAPTER III

THE CERTIFICATION OF AIRCRAFT AND PILOTS

The object and method of safety provisions—The safety provisions of the Automobile Convention—The safety provisions of the Maritime Conventions—The Convention on Safety of Life at Sea—The Merchant Shipping Acts—Safety provisions for air locomotion—The purpose of safety certification in the case of aerial locomotion unprecedentedly wide—The difficulty of certifying airworthiness—An early expert view as to certification of airworthiness—The pre-war regulations and projects: (a) Those requiring certification of the machine—(b) Those requiring certification of the pilot, but not of the machine—Certification of passenger-carrying aircraft—A Lloyd's Register for aircraft—The Convention of 1919 and the certification of airworthiness—Certification under the Air Navigation Regulations—Period of validity of certificates—The certification and licensing of pilots and crews—The testing and licensing authority—An international standard for pilots' certificates	28
--	--

13

---	----

CHAPTER IV

ENTRY AND LANDING OF FOREIGN AIRCRAFT

The formalities to be observed by the international aviator—The Franco-German Accord of 1913—The Home Office Regulations of 1913—Free Zeppelin rides for officials—The severity of the British pre-war rules—The leaving certificate and the prior notification of a flight—The system of air corridors of entry—The necessity for corridors of entrance—Where an aviator must, and may, land—The pre-war regulations as to landing—Landing on private property—The strange doctrine cujus est solum . . . —The right to fly over private property—The absurdity of private ownership of the clouds—M. Passion's formula—The right to land in private property—The difficulty of knowing private ground—The protection of the human birds of the air—Technical progress the probable solvent of the legal difficulties	44
---	----

CHAPTER V

CUSTOMS

A question of administration rather than law—The proposals made at Paris in 1910 and 1919—Pre-war legislation as to customs—The views of Judge Meyer and Dr. Würth—The turning of the customs frontier—Customs houses must move inland—The system of manifests—Smuggling by air—The goods suitable for illicit air running—The prevention of air smuggling—Recent regulations for aerial customs control—The International Convention of 1919—The special privileges of postal and certain other kinds of aircraft—The rules of Annex H of the Convention—The "customs hours"—The examination of dutiable goods—Forms of entry of imported goods—Drawback on exports	61
--	----

CHAPTER VI

DAMAGE

The various kinds of damage—The difficulty of legislating internationally—The general principle of law as to Third Party Damage—The exceptions: Rylands v. Fletcher and other cases—The French law as to damage—French judicial interpretation of the law in aircraft cases—The plea of force majeure in aircraft damage cases—The doctrine of absolute liability—The theory of fault and the theory of risk—The theory of risk and the
---	--

CONTENTS

vii

PAGE

development of aviation—Absolute liability the only equitable rule—The view of the Civil Aerial Transport Sub-committee—The American view, and the practical arguments for it—The enforcement of the right to indemnification—The proposal of the Comité Juridique—The proposal of Professor Hans Sperl—A possible variant of the Sperl proposal—Another possible solution—Acceptance of the doctrine of absolute liability essential to its success—The assessment of the damage . . .	74
---	----

CHAPTER VII

COLLISIONS AND WRECKS

Air collision and international regulation—The rules of the Syndicat Général, 1910—The rules drawn up at the Paris Conference, 1910—The rules issued with the Décrets of 1911-1913—The rules of the Convention of 1919 : (i) Lights ; —(ii) Landing and distress signals ;—(iii) Rules of the road ;—(iv) Rules for taking off and alighting—The enforcement of Flying Regulations—The jurisdiction and law to be applied—The proposals of MM. Fauchille and Von Bar—The view of Dr. Guibé—The dual aspect of an avoidable collision—The need for constructive legislation—British law as to maritime collision—French law as to maritime collision—Wrecks (épaves) : M. Fauchille's proposals—The discussion of wrecks at the Comité Juridique—The terms proposed and agreed at Paris, 1910—Pre-war legislative proposals as to aerial wrecks—The disposal of maritime derelict and wreck—The disposal of aerial wreck—Notification of, and first aid after, crashes .	89
--	----

CHAPTER VIII

LAW IN THE AIR

Icarus and the Law—The nature of the problem—The four classes of wrongful acts—Contraventions of Flying Regulations—Contraventions of Defence, Immigration, or similar enactments—"Common law" crimes and torts—Extradition an inadequate solution—The execution of foreign judgments—States not interested in acts done within passing aircraft—The "Law of the Flag" : some early proposals—The case for applying the law of the flag—The doctrine of the "Volume frontier"—The essential difference between air and sea travel—The machina itself turned dens —The case for "analysing the load"—The choice of a jurisdiction and a law—The Home Office view in 1911—Jurisdiction in civil cases—The analogy of the "law maritime"—The two cases : (a) the air journey within a given country ;—(b) the air journey to or from abroad—The difference between crimes and torts—The "normal" forum for crimes—Crimes and torts affecting the subjacent State—Torts committed in the air—Contracts made in the air—Last wills and testaments—Questions of an aircraft crew's discipline, wages, etc.—Summary of the proposals as to jurisdiction—The necessity for detailed rules—Military aircraft and exterritoriality—The definition of military aircraft—The difficulty of both definition and prohibition—Public (non-military) aircraft and exterritoriality . . .	106
---	-----

	PAGE
APPENDIX I— Paris Convention on International Air Navigation, 1919 —Text of Convention, with Annexes A (Marking of Aircraft), B (Certificates of Airworthiness), C (Log-books), D (Rules as to Lights and Signals, and Rules of the Air), E (Minimum Qualifica- tions necessary for obtaining certificates as Pilots and Navigators), H (Customs). (Note.—Two technical Annexes, F and G, are omitted)	137
APPENDIX II— Air Navigation Regulations, 1919 —Text of the Regulations, with Schedules I (Registration of aircraft), II (Li- censing of personnel), III (Certificates of airworthiness for passenger aircraft, and periodical overhaul and examination of such aircraft), V (Log-books), VI (Prohibited areas), VIII (Rules as to aircraft arriving in or departing from the United Kingdom). (Note.—Schedules IV (Registration and nationality marks) and VII (Rules as to lights and signals and rules of the air) are omitted as the same rules are given in Annexes A and D of the International Convention, Appendix I)	182
APPENDIX III— Precedents, drawn from the Great War, bearing on the question of the sovereignty of the air	203
BIBLIOGRAPHY	217
INDEX	229