PREFACE

THROUGH many years of activity as an industrial expert the author has gained an insight into the conditions of German industry and into its export activity. He has had an opportunity to compare its development and efficiency with those of other foreign industries. The War has created conditions and will be followed by circumstances which will shape and determine Germany's export trade in the future. These conditions must be taken into account and suitable measures adopted in preparation. New trails will have to be blazed if we are to overcome the obstacles ahead. An enormous task, worthy of the German people is to be performed. The Author ventures to hope that the present work may be able to contribute a little toward its accomplishment.

THE AUTHOR.

Zurich, in the late summer of 1915.
