KATE TAYLOR

POEMS

I DEDICATE THESE FORMS
TO THE MEMORY OF MY BELOVED FATHER,
THE REV. JAMES TAYLOR
(FOR MANY YEARS MINISTER OF THE UNITARIAN CHAPELS
AT RIVINGTON AND FALLSWORTH),
IN GRATITUDE FOR THE CAREFUL INSTRUCTION BESTOWED
UPON ME IN CHILDHOOD;
AND ALSO TO MY FATHER'S SISTER
(MY ADOPTED MOTHER),
WHO, WITH UNFAILING LOVE AND CONSTANT KINDNESS,
AFTER HIS DEATH.

"By them the early seeds were sown,
So be the harvest fruits their own."

PREFACE.

SOME of these poems have already appeared in different periodicals, but the greater portion of them now make their appearance in print for the first time.

When there are so many songsters who excel in sweet singing, it may perhaps appear presumptuous in a minor minstrel to publish a volume of poems, and so, as it were, to enter into competition with them. But that is not, and has not been, my feeling. For, as amongst the minstrels of nature we have Nightingales and Larks, so also we have minor minstrels there—Throstles and Robins; and I would only say—

If my voice be not sweet enough
To call me Nightingale,
Let me be the homely Throstle
Singing in the twilight pale.

May, 1880.

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry should be supported by a valid receipt or invoice. This ensures transparency and allows for easy verification of the data.

In the second section, the author outlines the various methods used to collect and analyze the data. This includes both primary and secondary research techniques. The primary research involved direct observation and interviews with key stakeholders, while the secondary research focused on reviewing existing literature and industry reports.

The third section presents the findings of the study. It shows that there is a significant correlation between the variables being studied. The data indicates that as one variable increases, the other tends to decrease, suggesting an inverse relationship. These findings are supported by statistical analysis and are consistent with previous research in the field.

Finally, the document concludes with a series of recommendations based on the findings. It suggests that organizations should implement certain practices to improve their performance and efficiency. These recommendations are designed to address the specific challenges identified during the study and to provide a clear path forward for future research and practice.
