P R E F A C E.

THIS work is strictly what its name denotes, a book for beginners. It should be used in conjunction with the Author's Grammar; those parts of the latter should first be studied which correspond to the introductory exercises. It is believed that any one who carefully works through Part I., with constant reference, as suggested, to the Grammar, will find no difficulty in reading the historical books of the Old Testament.

Part II. is provided with references to the Grammar, all of which should be conscientiously examined. The utility of this course will at once become evident to the student himself.

Part III. is intended to meet the needs of candidates for scholarships at the Universities; and the whole work is based on five years' experience in preparing such candidates in connexion with Merchant Taylors' School.

A KEY to the exercises will shortly be ready.
